

Considers Southern Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate turned today to consideration of southern proposals for student-parent freedom of choice in the selection of schools, including one plan Sen. John Stennis says is written along the lines of a New York state law.

Stennis, a Mississippi Democrat, says if such a plan can stand in New York, then Congress can permit no less for the rest of the nation.

Although Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he hopes the Senate can complete work on the $35 billion education bill by Tuesday, Stennis said he anticipated considerable discussion on the freedom of choice amendment and other proposals offered by Dixie senators.

Thus it is uncertain whether the bill extending major school aid programs for four years can be passed before the traditional Lincoln Day recess gets underway at the close of business Tuesday. The lawmakers' holiday period ends next Monday.

Meanwhile, governors of Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and Louisiana announced after a meeting Sunday in Mobile, Ala., they plan to meet soon with their congressional delegations.

The governors seek unified action to meet what they term "chaotic conditions" facing their schools because the courts have rebuffed efforts to block immediate desegregation through busing.

The Stennis amendment provides that, unless the local school board agrees, "no student shall be assigned or compelled to attend any school on account of race, creed, color, or national origin, or for the purpose of achieving equality in attendance, at any school, of persons of one or more particular races, creeds, colors or national origins."

The Supreme Court has held that freedom of choice can be allowed only if it is the best way to achieve an end to dual school systems.

In a speech prepared in opposition to the amendment, New Jersey Republican Sen. Clifford P. Case said:

"I believe there is some justification for feeling that the South is taking the brunt of the desegregation effort. But I disagree with any contention that the situation in the North justifies any diminution of pressure for desegregation in the South."

"In my view, two wrongs do not make a right. We must get at the problem in the North, but not at the expense of our efforts to correct even more severe problems in the South."

Judges Group Will Attend Local Meeting

In the afternoon the group will tour the Pettis County jail, which is in the final stages of construction.

E. L. (Red) Birdsong, eastern district judge, is treasurer of the judges association.

South's Governors Plan Desegregation Meetings

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Four Southern governors say they will meet with their congressional delegations "so that we may advise them of the gravity of our public school situation and seek a unified course of action to obtain relief from the chaotic situation now facing our schools."

The governors of Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana and Mississippi met for three hours Sunday at the International Trade Center to discuss strategy in light of recent school integration orders.

A two-page statement read afterward by Gov. John Bell Williams of Mississippi also said:

"We use this means to bring forcefully to the attention of our people and the people of the United States the fact that we believe our public schools will be destroyed under present federal decisions and administrative actions."

"We believe that the same standards for the operation of schools applied in other states should be applied in the Southern states. We resent the fact that we have been singled out in our respective states for punitive treatment."

Williams, who called the meeting, and Gov. Albert Brewer of Alabama and John McKeithen of Louisiana said they planned to go to Washington together to meet with their congressmen.

Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox left more than an hour earlier to address freedom-of-choice rallies in Albany and Sandersville, Ga.

At Birmingham, former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace told 11,000 persons at a freedom-of-choice rally that Southern governors should use their executive powers "to proclaim they will not abide by these (integration decrees) and to 'restore order in our public schools.'"

Wallace said the governors "can reopen closed schools, reassign pupils to the schools of their choice, end busing to achieve racial balance and assign teachers to the schools at which they want to teach."

National Health Concept Is Proposed in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Martha W. Griffiths, D-Mich., proposed today a national health insurance program under the Social Security System.

Her proposal was offered on the heels of a Senate staff report saying Congress will face great pressure to turn medicare and medicaid into some form of national health insurance unless the rapid increase of medical costs is halted.

Mrs. Griffiths' proposal, she said, would give to middle class Americans those health and medical benefits now being developed for the poor and aged, and which the wealthy already have simply because they can afford to pay for them.

Mrs. Griffiths, a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, said the bill would relieve state and local governments of health service tax burdens, estimated to be about $7 billion annually.

"In addition," she said, "since this bill would eliminate medicare and medicaid, the $10 billion supporting these programs would become available for the comprehensive national health program."

"My bill would also preserve free choice of physicians; preserve traditional professional freedom of practice and methods of payment; and maintain, indeed, utilize the authority of local medical and dental associations and societies."

The listed benefits of Mrs. Griffiths' bill would include:

—Coverage to every man, woman and child who has resided in the United States for a year or more.

—Health benefits, including hospitalization, as required and without limits; physicians services, including surgery, subject to a $2 charge per visit after the first visit; nursing home care; home health services subject to a $2 charge per visit.

—Dental services for all children under age 16 subject to a $2 cost charge per visit after the first visit.

—Eye care and prescription drugs.

The benefits would be financed under the Social Security program. Employers would pay three per cent of their payroll, employees one per cent of the payroll, and the federal gov-

Council of Advisers Sees Money Ease

WASHINGTON (AP) — Paul W. McCracken, chairman of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, says the administration probably will act to ease the tight monetary policies established to cool down the economy.

"Clearly, a continuation through 1970 of the rather restrictive policies that we had in 1969 would not be consistent with the outlook that we indicated" in the President's economic report, McCracken said Sunday.

McCracken joined other government economists over the weekend in declaring the administration has succeeded in slowing down the inflation spiral and, with the proper safeguards, without serious threat of a recession.

Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy, along with McCracken and Budget Director Robert P. Mayo and Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns, indicated the economy will continue to coast down for the next few months.

"Then," Kennedy said, "we will level out sometime this year to a more sustainable rate and then there will be an increase in activity on a more sustainable basis."

Kennedy, McCracken and Mayo appeared on NBC's Sunday interview program "Meet the Press."

Egyptians, Israelis Exchange Air Raids

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli and Egyptian jets traded strikes across the northern Suez Canal today as the little summit meeting of Israel's chief Arab foes drew to a close in Cairo.

Israeli planes made a 75-minute raid against Egyptian military targets in the northern sector of the canal, the military command announced in Tel Aviv, and all planes returned safely.

Egyptian military spokesmen in Cairo reported that Egyptian fighter-bombers attacked "enemy bunkers and an encampment in the Deversoir area, scoring direct hits." The planes hit a group of moving Israeli vehicles, the spokesmen said, and also attacked Israeli tanks on a main road in Sinai. All planes were reported to have returned safely.

Israeli jets struck on two sides of Cairo Sunday during the second day of the Arab leaders' conference called by President Gamal Nasser. The Israelis claimed they shot down two Egyptian MIG21s, Egypt claimed one Israeli Phantom, and each denied the other's camp.

The Israeli planes attacked an army camp at Inshash, 12 miles northeast of the Egyptian capital, and hit another camp near Helwan, 15 miles south of Cairo.

Just before the Sunday morning meeting of Arab leaders at Nasser's Zahraa palace in suburban Heliopolis, air raid sirens wailed, windows were rattled by an unexplained blast, and residents heard the thud of anti-aircraft guns firing at the Israeli raiders.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad said Sunday night that the leaders of Egypt, Jordan, Syria, Iraq and Sudan — the nations manning the front lines against Israel — had agreed on recommendations submitted to them, their foreign and defense ministers. The leaders were to hold a final discussion today and then issue a communique.

Egyptian fighters engaged the Israeli planes as they attacked the two army camps. Israeli spokesmen said the two MIGs were hit by cannon fire at "medium altitude," and that one exploded in the air and the other crashed in flames. They said one of the Egyptian pilots bailed out.

Cairo spokesmen said the Israeli Phantom was one of four intercepted by Egyptian MIGs near the raided area. It was the third Phantom the Egyptians claim to have destroyed.

It was Israel's ninth reported strike over the Nile Valley since Jan. 7 and the first in 11 days. Israeli pilots reported a massive explosion at the target near Helwan. Cairo said 12 civilians were injured.

It was also the first time Egyptian fighters challenged Israeli planes deep inside Egypt.

Both sides said Egyptian jets attacked Israeli positions in the central sector of the Suez Canal. Cairo said its fighter-bombers strafed "enemy encampments, artillery and tank positions," but Israel said the raids caused no casualties or damage.

State's Supreme Court Studies Landmark Case

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Can the Missouri Supreme Court oust a member of the legislature if it finds he doesn't live in his district?

That was the landmark question the court took under advisement today after hearing oral arguments on Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth's attempt to oust Rep. J. T. (Jet) Banks, D-St. Louis.

Banks was elected and seated by the House of Representatives from the 54th District of St. Louis City. But a special commissioner of the Supreme Court found in December that Banks in fact lived in Richmond Heights and was not a resident of the 54th District.

Evidence showed he was seen barbecuing, putting up Christmas decorations, working in the yard and had signed numerous documents listing his Richmond Heights address as his home.

Always in the past Missouri courts have held that each house of the legislature is the sole judge of the qualifications of its members. Joseph L. Walsh, Banks' attorney, relied on this long standing precedent in arguing that the Supreme Court has no jurisdiction in the case.

He said Republican Atty. Gen. Danforth was asking the court to interfere in the historic separation of powers between the legislative and judicial branches of government.

Al Asikes, assistant attorney general, argued instead that the real issue is whether the people of the 54th District are being discriminated against because they are denied representation by a resident of their district.

He said this doctrine of equal rights in the federal constitution overrides the Missouri constitutional provision giving the legislature the right to judge its own membership.

Under these circumstances, Judge Robert Donnelly said, "it comes down to the question, which constitution should we uphold?"

Sikes cited the case of Julian Bond, the Georgia Negro legislator who was finally seated after a U.S. Supreme Court decision. He said the high court held in that case the U.S. Constitutional guarantees overrode a state constitutional provision making the legislature the judge of the qualifications of its members.

He said the evidence was overwhelming that Banks did not live in his district, that there had been invidious discrimination against the people of the 54th District, and that the special commissioner's report should be upheld.

The special commissioner, Former Circuit Judge V.C. Rose, held hearings in St. Louis last November and made his recommendations in December. They may be affirmed or rejected by the Supreme Court or the court may make its own findings. No decision is expected for several months.

Walsh, in turn, charged that the case involved a clash of powers between the court and the legislature. He said the court was being asked to discard "ancient and well established principles and enter the political arena to solve a purely political question."

He noted that the U.S. Supreme Court in a recent case held that Congress was the sole judge of the qualifications of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y.

The court questioned both lawyers closely. Sitting in today as a special judge was Fred L. Howard, Presiding Judge of the Kansas City Court of Appeals.

Partisan Council Begins

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic Policy Council was summoned into session today to act on a series of broad domestic and foreign policy statements including a call for total U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam within 18 months.

Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex.,

saying he did not want to undermine President Nixon's efforts to settle the war, suggested in advance of the meeting the 66-member council delete any specific time limit from the proposal drafted by a subcommittee headed by Averell Harriman.

Meanwhile, antiwar factions on the council were considering a bid to strengthen the Harriman statement.

The all-day council meeting came a day after congressional Democrats presented a nationally televised view of the state of the nation, an equal-time reply to Nixon's State of the Union message.

The Democratic version focused on a troubled citizenry and the issues of this congressional election year. It consisted of interviews and discussions between congressional Democrats and citizens in Washington, Los Angeles, Houston and Detroit.

The airing of the Democratic show prompted T. Coleman Andrews Jr. of Richmond, Va., national chairman of the American party, to ask major television networks Sunday night for equal treatment for his organization of third-party groups that backed George C. Wallace's presidential campaign in 1968.

The Democratic Policy Council, headed by former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, was urged in the Harriman subcommittee proposal to reject President Nixon's policy of conditioning future U.S. troop withdrawals on the Paris peace talks, the level of violence progress in developing South Vietnamese forces.

Says Trial Information Came from Washington

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — The chief legal officer for this infantry center testified today that information leading to murder charges against Lt. William L. Calley Jr. came from higher headquarters in Washington.

Col. Robert M. Lathrop told a pretrial hearing on defense motions that a sworn statement pertaining to the case was forwarded to him by the Army inspector general's office.

However, Lathrop said he never received any instructions in preparing charges against Calley.

Calley, 26, is charged with murdering 102 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai March 16, 1968.

Lathrop was called as a witness on a defense motion which alleges that command influence was brought to bear in the decision to try Calley on the charges.

Lathrop said he discussed the case with the Judge Advocate General's office in Washington and was told "do nothing until you hear from us." He added that he later was told the case was "all yours."

"I went to the office of the Judge Advocate General in Washington for assistance in drafting specifications, and those specifications were sent to the student brigade in the event they saw fit to press charges," Lathrop testified.

Calley was assigned to the student brigade at Ft. Benning at the time.

Lathrop said he received a telephone call from a Col. William Chilcoat of the Judge Advocate General's office and that Chilcoat said, "Do nothing until you hear from us." He said this was in late August or early September 1969.

"On the 4th of September, I received a call from Col. Chilcoat stating 'it's all yours,'" Lathrop continued.

Lathrop said he passed that information on to Col. Lon C. Marlow, Calley's commanding officer at the time and now retired.

Calley was charged the day before his scheduled release from the Army Sept. 5, 1969.

Latimer contends the Army has no jurisdiction over the Miami, Fla. native because he is being held on active duty past his release date.

The hearing today revolves around pretrial defense motions that command influence from President Nixon on down was brought to bear in the decision to try Calley and that Calley can not get a fair trial because of pretrial news coverage.

Delta Battle Takes Heavy Toll

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese spokesmen said today that U.S. and government forces have killed at least 117 North Vietnamese and captured six in a four-day battle still going on in the western Mekong Delta's Plain of Reeds.

The battle in the savanna land — dry at this time of year — was the only sustained major fighting reported during the Viet Cong's four-day Tet cease-fire which ended at 7 a.m. today — 6 p.m. EST Sunday.

The fighting began when an American helicopter was fired on Friday. Government mercenaries led by U.S. Special Forces made a helicopter assault into the area, about eight miles southwest of Moc Hoa and 60 miles west of Saigon, and touched off a succession of running fights.

Field reports said about 10 government troops had been killed and a dozen wounded. The mercenaries and their Green Beret officers are being supported by American helicopter gunships and fighter-bombers.

In a clash this morning, government spokesmen said, two mercenaries were killed and one wounded and 16 enemy were killed. Twenty-six North Vietnamese were killed Sunday, government spokesmen said. No American casualties were reported.

The enemy troops are reported to be from the North Vietnamese 88th Regiment, one of four North Vietnamese regiments in the delta. It has operated near Chau Doc, 100 miles west of Saigon along the Cambodian border. Kien Tuong Province, where the current battle is being fought, is the farthest east that the unit has been sighted.

The U.S. Command reported that an American river patrol boat with five U.S. Navy men aboard strayed across the Cambodian border Thursday night and is being detained by the Cambodian government. A spokesman said Washington has asked the Cambodians to release the boat and its crew.

The incident occurred 100 miles west of Saigon, where the Mekong River crosses the border. The command said the crew "apparently became disoriented in the dark when returning to their station" 15 miles downstream from the border.

Associated Press photographer Charles Ryan reported from Chau Doc that the boat had been tied alongside a barge in midstream. He said Navy sources reported some of the crew had been drinking aboard the barge and meanwhile the current swung the barge around. As a result, the boat set out in the wrong direction — toward Cambodia instead of toward its base.

Another American boat crossed the border by mistake on July 17, 1968, with 11 U.S. soldiers and a South Vietnamese private on board. The Cambodians released them five months later.

Government investigators combed the ruins of the National Press Center in Saigon, wrecked Sunday by a 20-pound plastic bomb. The charge apparently was set by a Viet Cong terrorist and blasted through the upper floor offices of the two-story building. A huge hole was blown in the roof, and files and furniture were burned.

Fires In The City

Weekend fires in the city caused nearly $2,000 in damage in two of four fire alarms answered by firemen.

At 5:10 p.m. Saturday firemen were called to the William Jeffries residence, 512 South Engineer, where smoking in bed was listed as the cause of a fire which damaged a wall and mattress.

Damage estimated at $1,000 resulted to Webb's Tavern, 1604 South Ohio, in a fire caused by overheated grease in a ventilator hood. That alarm was sounded at 8:43 p.m. Saturday.

Paper in a trash baler at Katz Drug Store in the Thompson Hills Shopping Center caught fire at 7:37 p.m. Saturday. Some smoke damage resulted from the fire, which was thought to have been started by a cigarette.

Defective wiring on a fan cord resulted in $800 damage to the business place of Dr. E. O. Hudson, 120 West Second, in a fire which erupted about 11:40 p.m. Sunday.

Hudson tried to extinguish the blaze himself, but called firemen when he found he couldn't. Fire Chief Emmett Vaughn said five persons who lived over Dr. Hudson's office sat in his car for about one hour to keep warm while firemen fought the blaze. The five were forced out of their apartments by heavy smoke from the blaze.

Smoke damage to the upper portion of the building was not estimated.

C. Esser, 17, 1827 South Beacon, and a 1965 Chevrolet driven South on Limit by Ralph J. Meyers, 24, Route 1.

The fronts of both vehicles were damaged.

Police Report

L. H. Charles, Route 2, Sweet Springs, an employee of A. G. Co-Op, reported to Sedalia Police that the windshield of the truck he was driving was broken by a rock thrown from the overpass on South Limit Saturday afternoon. He told police he caught the youths, took them to their homes and informed the boys' parents about the incident.

The broken windshield was valued at $142.65.

Donald Thiele, 2017 South Grand, reported vandals scratched the paint on his car and broke the flag off his mailbox last week.

W. J. Foote, 1401 South Carr, reported vandals broke a window in his house at 1524 Honeysuckle Saturday night or Sunday morning.

Gail Klobber, 2503 Wing, reported vandals wrote profane words on the side of her brick home Thursday.

Larry Nelson, Route 1, Smithton, reported to police three youths took $45 from him Saturday while on a drinking spree north of Sedalia.

Nelson told police three youths approached him and asked him to buy some "booze" if they would buy it. Nelson said he did and all four of them went toward Georgetown on a drinking spree. The group then decided to get some more liquor, and while the group was parked downtown trying to get their money together for a second round, one of the youths hit Nelson in the stomach three times and took $45 in cash from his billfold, saying Nelson "was paying for that round." Nelson was shoved out of the car and his moneyless billfold given back to him.

William Kabler, 1100 South Osage, an employee at Clark's service station at Broadway and Kentucky, reported that three men in a 1969 Dodge Super Bee drove into the station about 10:30 p.m. Saturday and wanted to "fight him for what he called 'no reason.'" Kabler apparently sustained a couple of bruises in the incident, but no serious injuries.

Ervin Schaefer, 632 East 11th, charged with disturbance of the peace, was sentenced to 30 days in jail.

Bobby James Parks, 519 West Pettis, charged with common assault, was dismissed.

Donald P. Rittmueller, 1520 West 20th, charged with speeding, forfeited $10.

William Hunter, 1002 South Grand, charged with common assault and resisting arrest, was sentenced to 30 days in jail on each charge.

Evelyn Moore, Route 1, reported that her pocketbook was taken from her car between 4 and 5 p.m. Saturday while it was parked at the Dutch Maid Laundry at Seventh and Emmet.

Norton Batchelder, Route 4, reported vandals broke a window at the home of Mrs. F. H. Rodick, 1420 State Fair, Friday night.

Police received a report from Bothwell Hospital authorities

Gives Reasons For Candidacy As Independent

Walker G. Paxton, candidate for second ward councilman, says he entered the race as an independent to avoid being a "man hand-picked by the establishment."

"Being aware of the way the caucuses have been handled by the establishment in the past several years, I knew this was the only way I could run without being a hand-picked man," declared Paxton, who filed for office Friday.

The 64-year old Paxton, a lifetime resident of Sedalia, hopes to fill the council seat left vacant since Democrat Lavern Masters resigned last August.

In a platform statement made to The Democrat Paxton said, "I want to see the second ward fully represented, especially for the poor and working class of people. I am against anything that will cause a burden on the taxpayers, but I will work hard toward the progress of the city of Sedalia and good, honest government."

ernment would match the employer contribution from general revenues.

"The charges for adequate nongovernment health insurance are rising to levels beyond the financial capacity of millions of hardworking Americans," the report said.

If these are not slowed, the staff said, "Congress may reasonably anticipate increased pressures upon it to extend the medicare and medicaid programs to encompass large segments of the population not now covered"—in other words, some kind of national health insurance.

Ann Landers

Waitress Indignant About Small Tip

Dear Ann Landers: What would you have said or done under the following circumstances?

My boyfriend took me to a very fancy place for dinner Saturday night to celebrate my birthday. Arnie is working on a job that doesn't pay a lot but he feels he has a good future. He had saved a certain amount for the dinner, but when the check came it was more than he had planned on. He had just enough to cover the check and leave a small tip. Unfortunately, I didn't have any money with me.

As we were leaving, the waitress caught us at the door and handed Arnie the tip he had left on the table. She said, "If this is the best you can do, keep it. You must need it worse than I do."

I was so embarrassed for Arnie I wanted to die. He didn't say anything but he looked as if he had been slapped in the face. Should he have replied in some way? If so, what should he have said? — N.Y. Incident

Dear N.Y.: It's easy to think of a snappy comeback — the next day. Here's a suggestion from another Monday morning quarterback. Arnie should have taken the money, and replied in a voice dripping with honey, "How kind of you to return the tip. Yes, I do need it. Thanks for your generosity."

Dear Ann Landers: From time to time you print letters from girls who wonder if it pays to say no. Please permit an old bachelor of 24 to answer the question.

Miss White Flower Girl, whoever you are, don't think you are abnormal because you are unwilling to become a biological testing ground for some immature clown. The girl who figures she should sleep with a guy to repay him for dinner and a show is the prize dummy. More often than not he will take her out once or maybe twice after that, but he rarely views her as a prospective wife. As you said in a column recently, "The reason no man asks you out more than three times is because the sample was ample."

As a male speaking for males, those of us who choose restraint are a good deal more manly than the sex acrobats who hope from bed to bed trying to prove something. Remember, if a man must seek constantly to prove his manhood, he must have some serious doubts about it to begin with. And if he's having such doubts, why be part of an experiment to inflate a sagging ego?

If more young women could see where they fit into the picture, there'd be less bed-hopping and more mental health. — Indiana

Dear In: Your letter is a strong argument against the old canard that free and easy sex is good therapy for uptight females. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I am tortured by doubts and immobilized by indecision. I won't go into detail but I can't make up my mind about something and I must say "yes" or "no" soon. My mother says I'm a child. She insists that a mature person has no doubts. Is she right? — L.A.

Dear L.A.: I don't agree. Doubts are the stairs we must climb to reach the altar of wisdom. Once having made the climb, however, we must arrive at a conclusion and act. More people have been ruined by the inability to make a decision than because they made the wrong one.

Miss Chinatown

Marion Kam Yin Lee, a 21-year-old native of Honolulu, was chosen Miss Chinatown U.S.A. Sunday in San Francisco in festivities marking the start of the Chinese New Year. The 5' 4" Hawaiian beauty is a student at the University of Hawaii where she is studying Spanish. (UPI)

Say Democrats Were 'Outflanked'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Nixon has outflanked the Democratic majority in Congress, Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott says.

"I think the majority made a serious mistake in the way they handled things in Congress," the Pennsylvania Republican said Friday in a talk to students at Occidental College.

Scott said the Democrat lawmakers "did as little as possible in 1969," planning to "do everything in 1970 and get credit for it."

He said they planned in that way to blame the President for the delays, but "the President outflanked them."

"He (Nixon) can point out that he made his legislative requests and recommendations early last year," Scott said. "He can point out his reminders later, in October."

Chinese New Year

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Cymbal bangers and street dancers roam daily this week through crowds turning out to view the spectacles of the Chinese New Year festivities.

The celebrations will climax Saturday in a three-hour parade featuring a glittering 60-foot-long golden dragon.

Marion Kam Yin Lee, 21, of Honolulu, was named Miss Chinatown USA Saturday night and will reign over the final events ushering in the Year of the Dog, No. 4668 on the Chinese lunar calendar.

The new year actually began last Friday, but families traditionally observe the first day quietly at home.

Ex-Residents Of Beaman Visit Africa

BEAMAN — Mrs. Nellie Bradbury Sapp of Julesburg, Colo., formerly of the Beaman area Route 5, recently returned from a three-week tour of Zambia, Africa, where she visited her grandson and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Sapp and three children at Livingstone, Zambia. The Sapps are missionaries at Livingstone.

Mrs. Sapp was accompanied by her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sapp, Norfolk, Neb., parents of Ronald, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Pickerills of Long, Mont., parents of Mrs. Ronald Sapp.

While in Zambia they visited Victoria Falls, one of the Seven Wonders of the World; the game park, attended church services in the "bush" and were given handmade gifts by the Africans. Enroute home they stayed over night in Nairobi, Kenya, took a four-day tour of the Holy Land and were in the garden tomb on New Year's Day, and went to the tomb where Jesus was laid out after the crucifixion.

They spent four days in Jerusalem, went to the Dead Sea and washed their feet in the Jordan River. They ate dinner on the shore of Galilee, and also visited Athens, Corinth, Greece, Vienna and Amsterdam.

Mrs. Sapp has two sisters in Sedalia, Mrs. Frank Swope, 236 South Missouri, and Mrs. Ralph Lee, Route 5.

Work Strike Ended

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The city's 1,500 municipal employees were back on the job today after a 34-day walkout over a new contract.

A settlement was reached Thursday, but the workers decided not to return until today.

To Investigate Passengers On Stolen Plane

MEXICO CITY (AP) — One of three persons aboard a small plane that landed in Ciudad del Carmen, Campeche, last week is being detained on charges of disorderly conduct, U.S. embassy sources said Sunday.

A second passenger is sought by Kennett, Mo., authorities in connection with the theft of the plane from the McGhee Co.

The source said Kennett authorities have issued a warrant for the arrest of Michael Alexander, who arrived in Ciudad del Carmen last Monday or Tuesday with James Paige and Connie Foster.

A Ciudad del Carmen police spokesman said while the plane landed normally, Alexander seemed to be lost.

Alexander asked to file a flight plan to Belize, British Honduras, but was told by airport personnel he would have to wait 24 hours for clearance, according to the embassy spokesman.

A disturbance at the airport the following morning resulted in the disorderly conduct charge against Paige, spokesman said.

Miss Foster and Alexander, meanwhile, became ill. They were hospitalized but later released.

GE Facilities Bombed; Possible War Protest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bombs caused slight damage to two General Electric Co. facilities in New York City Sunday night not long after an anonymous caller claimed credit for vandalizing a GE office in Washington, D.C., as a protest of the company's war production. No one was hurt by the blasts.

New York police discovered and defused a third bomb early today in front of the GE headquarters building in midtown Manhattan.

The FBI was investigating the incidents. Police offered no speculation on whether they were related.

"We have taken this action to disrupt functioning of the machine of death and oppression," the caller said Sunday to The Associated Press. He said GE was the "second leading producer of armament for the United States government."

He made no mention of the subsequent New York bombs, but said "we are the same group of people" who vandalized three Selective Service centers in Philadelphia Saturday. Two persons were arrested in that incident.

After the telephone tip Washington police and GE officials discovered that papers had been strewn about the floors of GE's 11th floor offices, center of most of its Washington operations. A spokesman said sensitive materials were not disturbed and apparently nothing was stolen. The caller said his group had "liberated and destroyed" GE files.

Late Sunday night a bomb exploded in a two-story, block-long

GE warehouse and appliance repair and service center in the Queens section of New York City. Police reported slight damage and no injuries.

Another bomb went off 45 minutes later in a GE appliance repair store in Brooklyn, breaking four panes of glass and damaging a window casing but causing no injuries. Police said the 18-inch-long pipe bomb appeared to be the work of an amateur.

Police then posted special security watches on other GE facilities in the city. Two hours later a foot patrolman discovered a cylindrical metal bomb in a brown paper package in front of GE's headquarters building in Manhattan. Bomb experts deactivated the device.

The anonymous caller dictated his news release-style statement apparently from a pay telephone some distance from Washington. At one point an operator broke in to say that the initial three minutes had elapsed.

"By this action we express our solidarity with the D.C. 9 who are presently on trial in Washington," the caller said. He referred to nine persons accused of ransacking offices of the DOW Chemical Co. in Washington last year.

The relatives were invited aboard during the taxi maneuver, Rogers said.

Pieces of the whirling rotors damaged the Army helicopter, three automobiles, the terminal building and a fence, besides hitting Davis and McClendon.

Springfield Air Crash Hurts Eight at Airport

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Eight persons, including six civilian relatives of the crew, were injured Sunday in a Marine helicopter that flipped over on its side while taxiing.

The big CH53 was being moved backward to a spot where the crew could work on one of the tires.

Maj. James A. Rogers said the tail rotor struck an Army helicopter parked near a National Guard maintenance hangar. That threw the CH53 off balance, Rogers said, and a gust of wind blew it over on its side.

Two crewmen, John M. Davis, 21, of Charleston, W.Va., and Lowell McClendon, 26, of Clinton, Ark., were on the ground with telephones directing the taxiing. Both were struck by pieces of the shattered rotors.

Davis was reported in critical condition with head injuries.

Luther Green, 85, of Neosho, Mo., a civilian, also was hospitalized with head injuries. His condition was fair. The other victims were treated and released.

The CH53, stationed at New River, N.C., came to Springfield on a standard air crew training flight, said Maj. Rogers, of New River. He was not a member of the crew, but he came along to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Rogers Sr. of Springfield.

The pilot, Chief W.O. Carroll Fain, also got to visit his parents, Luther and Mrs. Ellen Green, 72, of Neosho, Mo.

The parents of Rogers and Fain, and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Green of Neosho went to the airport to see the helicopter depart for New River. Curtis is a son of Luther.

Episcopal Diocese Arrives at Budget

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A staff operating budget of $324,000 for 1970 was adopted over the weekend during a special convention of the Episcopal Diocese of Missouri.

A diocese spokesman said the budget could be increased to $396,000 if $72,000 is raised during a fund-raising campaign in the spring.

The budget compared with $408,000 in 1969 and $457,661 proposed at the diocese convention last fall in St. Charles.

Contributions falling short of expectations accounted for the revised budget, a spokesman said.

Computers, Microfilm Keep State Records

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri's paperwork jungle is being cleared. You can now find a specific record among the state's millions of pieces of paper in something like three minutes.

The capitol basement used to be piled high with boxes. Records were scattered indiscriminately through state agencies. Sometimes it took weeks to find a particular record.

Now the basement has been cleared. It has been converted into parking space and offices, a test kitchen, a computer center, a snack center for visitors and employees and utility control rooms.

Right now some more space is being cleared as old Treasury checks are removed for microfilming at a rate of four million a year.

How has all this come about? Back in 1955, the first "Little Hoover" Commission on government reorganization recommended establishment of a state records management center.

Ten years later the legislature agreed that might be a good idea. Agencies were hollering for more space and old records were reaching mountainous proportions.

So the Records Management and Archives Service Section was established in the secretary of state's office. It got into operation with the renting of a warehouse in January, 1966, and the results have been impressive.

Here, for once, is a government program that saves money.

Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick estimates the total saving at between $1.5 million and $2 million in the form of outside rentals avoided, equipment purchases bypassed, fire hazards eliminated, emptied files re-assigned and procedures simplified and quickened.

Heading the program is Robert F. Connor of Jefferson City, a business and public administration graduate of the University of Missouri. He specialized in personnel and industrial management. For five years he worked in the State Budget Office then became the first director of the new Records Management and Archives Service Section when it was created in 1965.

His strong right arm is Harris Hewitt, a retired Army officer who runs the spick and span records center which houses record storage, the crumbling archives and the relatively new microfilming operation, still in its infancy.

Total staff—14 men and women, plus some part time university students and sometimes three or four penitentiary inmates who are used for physical labor, such as moving the 30-pound cardboard record boxes.

Connor emphasizes the convicts have no access to any records and always work under close supervision.

He says he has become very security conscious. For example, old income tax records must be kept confidential under the law. Before they are destroyed, they are shredded and baled, then sold as waste paper.

The records center is now busy destroying about 40,000 cubic feet of records to make room for more of the stuff that keeps coming from all state agencies. That's equivalent to about 110 million pieces of paper.

Altogether the records center has about 42,000 cubic feet of storage space and rents the warehouse for $23,400 a year.

Eventually, Connor foresees the need for about 100,000 cubic feet of storage space.

By the time that point is reached, Connor hopes the state will have its own records building like many other states.

The warehouse looks like any other warehouse — concrete floors, steel girders overhead, a minimum of creature comforts. Stacked on steel shelves are row after row of cardboard boxes. Each section of shelving holds 60 cubic feet of records — enough to fill 10 file cabinets.

Kirkpatrick figures it costs $5.08 per cubic foot a year to store records in the offices of the state agencies but only about 55 cents a year in the records center.

The filing and storage cabinets freed by the transfer of records to the center are shifted around to other agencies which might need them.

Kirkpatrick estimates the state saves about $90,000 a year in budgeted requests for filing cabinets.

The relatively new microfilming program is carried on with sophisticated equipment which can take a picture of the front and back of a check at the same time. One machine handles over 100,000 checks a day.

For the first time, all of the attorney general's opinions are being put on film and this section is busy now filming all the original legislative bills as far back as they are available.

Many state agencies use the central equipment to microfilm their records and the program has been extended to the state colleges. Mental hospital records will be put on film next.

All birth, death and marriage records already have been filmed and are instantly available in the State Division of Health.

Connor says putting records on film reduces storage space requirements by 98 per cent. Cost studies are incomplete but Kirkpatrick estimates the state is saving between $2.45 and $2 a roll by processing its own film.

Then there is the Archives Service Section directed by Mrs. Pauline Irvine as archivist. So far she has catalogued about 300,000 documents.

They include the correspondence of Missouri governors between 1823 and 1940, and thousands of old land records—often of great interest to genealogists, surveyors and geographers.

Last year the archives section received 639 requests for information, many relayed from the federal government. Requests have come from all over the United States and from Canada, Switzerland, the Canal Zone, Brazil, the Philippines and Africa.

The state capitol burned in 1837 and 1911 but Mrs. Irvine had rediscovered many of the records that were thought lost in the 1911 fire.

The oldest single record goes back to 1770 when Missouri was a Spanish territory. It was dated Feb. 9, 1770 and signed only "Pernas," the territorial governor.

It was the appointment of one Martin Duralee as Zofficial survoyor of this colony by his Catholic majesty" and was written in old fashioned French that was difficult to translate.

As the work proceeds, Connor sees further benefits in the future.

For one thing, local governments could take advantage of the centralized record control and microfilming program with ease. But that again would take an official act of the legislature.

And the legislature is slow to embrace any new ideas. Maybe another 10 years?

HOME OWNERSHIP
Why are there Missouri families who want to be, but are not now, enjoying the comfort and satisfaction of living in and owning a modern home?

One big reason, says Art Stanley, state Farmers Home Administration real estate loan officer, is that many of these families are eligible for FHA home loans but don't know it. They also may mistakenly think the cost would probably be too high.

Could a family with an annual income of $4,000 maybe even less—get a FHA loan to purchase or build a new modern home?

Such families may be eligible, Stanley insists.

Are FHA home loan funds in Missouri in good supply?

Ample loan funds are waiting for eligible borrowers, says the FHA official. There is no problem in Missouri with regard to FHA home financing money for eligible borrowers in the low to moderate income category.

How about interest rates? They seem to be getting higher all the time.

Interest rates vary, but can be as low as 1 per cent, according to Stanley.

But, aren't FHA home loans made only to people who live out in the country? Some people say those loans are only for rural people. Rural means out in the country, does it not?

Stanley answers that the definition of rural, with respect to FHA home loans, includes communities with a population of not more than 5,500 people. There are many Missouri towns in that category. So, residents of those communities, as well as those who "live out in the country," may be eligible for a FHA home loan.

The local FHA office is located in the Thompson Hills Shopping Center. Director is Kenneth Fine.

Persons may also be interested to know that the UMC Extension Division has developed 15 basic house plans which meet requirements for homes built with FHA loan funds. Copies of the 15 plans can be gotten from any Extension Center.

INSECT CONTROLS

Several UMC guides giving 1970 recommendations for insect control are now available at the Extension Center at 1140 South Grand. They include fly control on dairy cattle (No. 7000), fly control in dairy buildings (No. 7001), fly control on beef cattle (No. 7010), beef cattle lice control (No. 7011), and fly control in poultry buildings (No. 7030). Each Guide includes a discussion of control procedures and lists the various pests that attack each species mentioned and describes how to formulate the insecticides recommended.

HERBICIDE MEETING
Dealers and farmers are invited to attend a herbicide and pesticide district meeting in Warrensburg Feb. 23. The meeting will start with Dutch treat meal at 6:30 p.m. at Lamb's Restaurant.

Laurel Anderson and George Thomas from the Missouri College of Agriculture will bring the latest recommendations on herbicides for corn, milo and soybeans. Johnson grass chemicals will be discussed. The control of corn soil insects, European corn borer and forage insects will be covered.

Area Farmers Attend MU's Turkey Day

Several Pettis Countians attended the annual Turkey Day recently at the University of Missouri-Columbia.

From Sedalia, Erwin L. Eckhoff, L.K. Potter, and R.D. Kahrs; Don Knight of LaMonte, and William L. Cloud, Green Ridge, heard Leonard Voss, agricultural economist at the university, discuss the future of turkey production in Missouri, which already ranks fourth in the nation.

Attending the conference at which several experts in the field discussed marketing and processing of turkeys were several other area residents, including: Joseph F. Adams and Eldon Lawson, Boonville; Paul J. Willenbring, Pilot Grove; Tom Harmon, Warrensburg; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hovdi, Bob Kuecker, and Janet Kuecker, Concordia; Rowland H. Gum and Harold O'Connor, California; Joe C. Jurgensmeyer, Tipton; Wendell F. Roberts, Versailles; Harold H. Pase, Slater; Don Wardlow, Marshall; and Donald R. Vogelsmeier, Sweet Springs.

The general public is invited to this series of educational meetings.

Unscheduled Test For Brinks Truck

DETROIT (AP) — "I don't think it's that funny," shouted one of four Brinks guards who had apparently locked themselves out of their armored truck during a lunch break downtown.

The four struggled with a pen knife, a loaded pistol, and a bent coat hanger before a replacement key arrived to allow them to return to the cab section of the truck.

Farm Roundup

Economists See Little Change in Net Income

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department economists now predict farm net income this year may be about the same as the $16 billion estimated for 1969, the third best year on record.

Last November, the department said rapidly rising production costs were expected to cut into net income more deeply during the first half of 1970.

In a report on the demand and price situation, officials said continued strong demand for livestock during the next few months "will likely hold farm product prices above a year earlier well into 1970."

Costs will continue to rise, the report said, but gross income is expected to keep pace at least for the earlier half.

"However supplies may become more plentiful during the summer and fall," the economists said, "and if inflation eases some as expected, prices late this year may average close to year-earlier levels."

The farm economists also predicted retail food prices would continue rising but at a slower rate. They said that for the year prices may average 3.5 to 4 per cent more than in 1969.

This was a considerably more conservative prediction than the department offered a year ago when economists estimated retail food would rise 2 to 2.5 per cent during 1969.

Last year's food prices charged consumers actually wound up more than 5 per cent higher than in 1968.

Farm marketing receipts this year are expected to gain, but only at about half the $3 billion increase in 1969, the department said. Livestock marketings may run 3 to 5 per cent ahead of the $28.5 billion gross last year, but cash receipts from crops are not expected to gain much from $18.9 billion in 1969.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department and the Department of Housing and Urban Development announced today they are teaming up on coordinating programs for rural housing.

The two agencies said housing program officials will "work to carry out the program recommendations" of a joint rural housing task force set up last August.

Goals include expansion of housing credit, faster home building, more coordination in area planning and increasing availability of building sites.

The agencies noted that "almost two-thirds of the nation's substandard housing and almost one-half of its poverty stricken people" live in rural areas and towns of less than 25,000 persons.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The

Agriculture Department expects larger supplies of soybean meal soon will ease prices charged farmers for high-protein livestock feed.

Action Awaited On Stolen Plane

KANNETT, Mo. (AP) — State Department action in recovery of a plane stolen eight days ago from the Mc Ghee Aviation Co. was being awaited today following location of the plane in Mexico.

Police Chief Ed Fuller said a telephone call from a Memphis, Tenn., woman, Connie L. Foster, 22, to her mother led FBI agents against onto the trail of the aircraft, a seven-passenger Aero-Commander valued at between $50,000 and $75,000.

Miss Foster called her mother asking for money with which to return home last Wednesday. Fuller said. The woman identified her companions as Jim Paige, 31, of Memphis and Michael P. Alexander, 25, of Blytheville, Ark., believed to have been the plane's pilot.

Two Agencies Are Building Credit Center

Construction has begun on a new building at South Limit and Heck Ave., across from the Sedalia County Club, that will house the Federal Land Bank Association and Production Credit Association.

The building, to be known as the Farm Credit Service Building, is expected to be completed by April or May. The brick structure is being built by the Boerchers and Heimsath Construction Co. at a cost of $35,000. It will contain 2,500 square feet of floor space.

Gerald Hancock is manager of the Federal Land Bank, and Francis Mergen is branch manager of the Production Credit Association.

Says 'Dry Holes' Aren't Always So

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Rep. Charles A. Vanik says oil and gas companies are falsely listing wells as dry holes and failing to report known reserves in order to reclaim and save money under tax laws.

The Cleveland Democrat lodged his charges in a Thursday night speech and said Friday he intended to have a full report in a "few weeks" after obtaining further information from the Internal Revenue Service.

Vanik said he planned to recommend that when the IRS allows companies to write off dry holes, "they ought to be made to relinquish their mineral rights or have a geologist check these holes."

Vanik declined Friday to say how extensive he believed such practices to be.

Missouri Accidents Claim Five

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A two-car crash Saturday near Milan accounted for three of the five traffic deaths recorded on Missouri roads and highways over the weekend.

The Milan crash killed David Eastman, 30, of Milan; Mrs. Truman Shepherd, 60, and Barbara Higgins, 24, both of Chillicothe.

A motorcycle-car accident Saturday took the life of Robert Libman, 20, an Air Force enlisted man from Chicago stationed at Blytheville, Ark., Air Force Base. His motorcycle collided with a car on Missouri 25 about 18 miles southwest of Kennett.

Marsha McClelland, 21, of Webster Groves, was killed when the car in which she was riding skidded off U.S. 54 about eight miles north of Fulton Friday night.

St. Louis Minister Will Leave Pulpit

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — The Rev. Dr. J. Layton Mauze Jr., who led Central Presbyterian Church through confrontations with black militants last summer, said Sunday he is retiring because of poor health.

The Rev. Dr. Mauze, 61, has served the church since February, 1949. His father filled the same pulpit from 1892 to 1917.

Members of the Black Liberation Front entered the church and read a black manifesto demanding reparations last June, a subsequent $100,000 damage suit filed by Central Presbyterian was dropped following court issuance of a permanent injunction barring further interruptions.

Before coming here, The Rev. Dr. Mauze served pulpits in Kansas City and Huntington, W. Va.

TWC

(TOTAL WEED CONTROL)

AMIBEN™ preemergence weedkiller killed grass for more soybean farmers than any other herbicide in 1969. And, it also was the first choice for broadleaf weeds by a wide margin.

This all-in-one, double action, Total Weed Control gives farmers with good management a truly outstanding tool. They can depend upon AMIBEN as the best way to cancel out grass and weeds as a limiting factor when it comes either to growing the beans, or harvesting the crop.

Does it make sense to buy a half-action grass herbicide? One that lets big weeds through (and yes, even some grasses) but costs a little less, or puts you through the work of soil incorporation? There are several such limited control products on the market. But farmers can easily end up looking at a hefty stand of weeds that "escaped" because of limited capability of the herbicide.

Weed control to be profitable to the farmer should keep everything out but the beans, and do it with ease of use and safety to the crop. Only AMIBEN makes this a realistic goal.

Note: Neither AMIBEN nor any other preemergence soybean herbicide kills cocklebur germinating below the treated soil layer, nor morning-glory, nor perennial weeds. AMIBEN is a Trade Mark of Amchem Products, Inc.

Anti-Crime Theme To Push Sales Tax

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mayor A. J. Cervantes is pegging his campaign to win voter approval of a 1 per cent city sales tax to a "Fight Crime" slogan.

The sales tax proposal is one of three items in the St. Louis mayor's "anti-crime package" the city's voters will be asked to approve March 3.

The other two are bond issue proposals — $12 million to install modern mercury vapor lights on streets that do not already have them, and in alleys and city parks; and $4 million to expand juvenile detention and rehabilitation facilities.

Cervantes has been busy recently raising funds through voluntary contributions to finance a "vote yes" campaign. He hopes to collect $100,000 to $150,000 to get his message across through paid newspaper advertisements, radio and television spots, community meetings, billboards, etc.

The Missouri Municipal League reports that 12 other cities and towns have taken the sales tax issue to the polls. Citizens in three municipalities — Joplin, Southwest City, and Richmond Heights — voted to tax themselves. The proposal was defeated in Kansas City, St. Joseph, Chillicothe, Smithville, Excelsior Springs, Gladstone, Grandview, Clayton and Oak Grove.

The Cervantes administration is well aware of those statistics.

"The mayor adopted the attitude that the campaign, to be successful, must be simple," an aide said. "He adopted the crime theme. A recent survey shows that the citizens feel crime is the city's preponderant problem."

It is estimated that the 1 per cent sales tax would produce $10 million for use during the balance of the 1970-71 fiscal year and $20 million a year thereafter.

City officials say about $8 million of the 1970-71 money would be used to operate city services at their present level, without the tax, they say, services would have to be cut by $8 million because state law prohibits the city from budgeting for an operating deficit. This $8 million, they add, would just about cover pay increases already made to the city's 8,500 Civil Service employees and city policemen.

The other $2 million would permit the hiring of 172 additional policemen, bringing the department up to authorized strength, officials say. The police force now numbers 2,046.

So far, the administration has not spelled out how the additional $10 million would be used once the tax begins producing the anticipated $20 million a year. But in plugging for the tax before the Board of Aldermen, Cervantes said the money would go "to meet the operating needs of our community."

No major, organized opposition to the mayor's package has developed so far. One Negro alderman, C. B. Broussard, has voiced opposition on grounds the poor would have to pay proportionately more than their share.

Cervantes contends there is no other source and that the lion's share of the revenue from the tax would benefit the city's poor. He said about $32 million of the city's current $110 million budget goes directly to the poor through services ranging from hospital care to food programs.

Arrest 20 During KC Drug Raid

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Police seized $5,000 worth of drugs and arrested 20 persons in a raid on an apartment in the midtown area about midnight Saturday.

"It looks like somebody was doing a heck of a big business," said Don C. Grasher, detective.

Acting on a tip, police broke down the third-floor apartment door after it was slammed in their faces. They said 12 men and seven girls between 17 and 24 years old were frantically throwing bags of drugs out the windows. Another youth arrived later and was arrested.

Grasher said there were about 8,000 pills, mostly barbiturates and other depressants; more than 100 small LSD tablets; 20 packets of amphetamine, and a small quantity of hashish; 15 syringes and injection needles, a pistol and a revolver.

Police said the apartment was dirty and uncared for. There was no furniture—only mattresses and cushions on the floor. A Christmas tree stood in the living room.

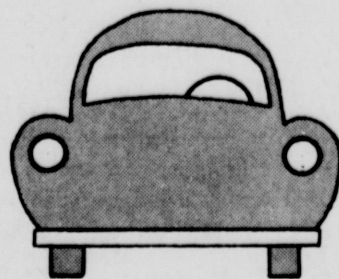

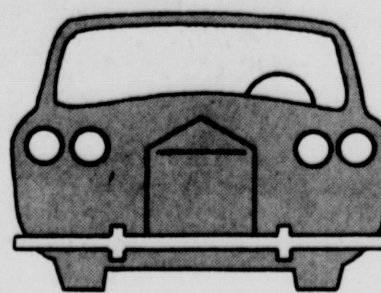

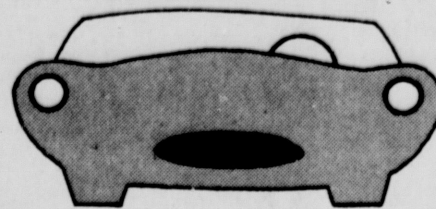

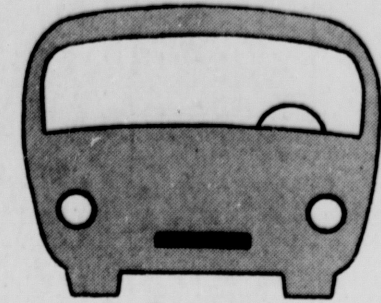

"There was one 18-year-old girl who had been hooked on heroin for three years," Grasher said. "Others had scabs and needle marks on their arms from using infected needles."

Five persons were arraigned on drug possession charges Sunday, and the others were released.

Grasher said the five were the only ones in physical possession of drugs when they were arrested. They were Mrs. Madeline Slaughter, 24, who rents the apartment; Miss Barbara J. Downing, 19, of Denver; Miss Debbie J. Woodward, 19, Mission, Kan.; Ronald L. Hammon-tree, 22, and Gregory White, 19, both of Kansas City.

Their preliminary hearing was set for Thursday.

Drug Addicts Abound in the Nation's Capital

By MARY ELLEN RIDDLE
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The nation's capital is trying to get the monkey off its back. District of Columbia officials estimate 50 per cent of the inmates of local jails are drug-related crimes and most of those have been arrested before. The real offender in these cases is heroin, a highly addictive narcotic that almost inevitably leads the addict to crimes other than illegal use of the drug.

A heroin habit is expensive. The average addict's daily fix costs between $30 and $50. For some, it takes as much as $100 worth of heroin to dissolve the tension and physical pain of withdrawal into a euphoric high.

The addict's life is a see-saw. He can't hold a job. When he is high he can't function and when the need for another fix starts creeping up on him, his only concern is to put together the cash he needs to score (buy enough for another day. Even if an addict could hold a steady job, few of them are qualified for positions that pay enough to support the habit and provide for other needs.

So they steal. It's small-time stuff—shoplifting, minor burglaries, stick-ups, purse snatching, muggings. But to feed a $50-a-day habit the addict has to steal about $250 worth of merchandise. The value of stolen goods goes down quickly when the thief has to sell quickly. If the estimate of 3,000 addicts in Washington is correct, these small thefts make up a significant percentage of D.C. crime.

Washington jails have handled addicted prisoners by putting them on a "cold turkey" withdrawal. Or they have tried to. A recent inspection of D.C. jails showed that heroin and other drugs do get in to inmates with outside connections. But addicts who are withdrawn usually head straight for the pusher when they are released and begin the daily cycle of stealing, scoring and shooting up all over again.

The District of Columbia is trying to break the cycle. Beginning this month the Department of Health and the Department of Corrections are working together to treat addicts with a daily glass of orange juice spiked with the synthetic drug, methadone, which is chemically the same as morphine.

"Methadone blocks out withdrawal symptoms," said Arthur Kiracofe, a public health official, and it is administered in such large doses that, even if an addict does take heroin, he gets no high from it. Kiracofe said the methadone itself does not produce a high and an addict being treated with the drug can function normally in a job and with his family.

Methadone is also an addictive drug, so using it as a replacement for heroin has been controversial. Opponents say it's just as bad to be hooked on heroin, but supporters counter with the argument that, since methadone is legal, and costs the addict nothing, using it will cut the crime rate. Although a daily dose of methadone costs less than $1, the program may cost as much as $1,500 for each addicted treated during the first year. The cost should decrease after the first year. The established program in Baltimore costs about $11 a week for each addict. Congress has authorized $600,000 for the program's first year and planners hope to treat 250 to 300 addicts next year and add 300 more to the program in each year after 1970.

Methadone is being used to treat addicts in about 30 other metropolitan areas. The New York program directors claim to have kept 80 per cent of the addicts treated in the program and away from heroin.

The D.C. program is different from other methadone projects—after about four or five years on the synthetic drug, the health department hopes it will be able to gradually to withdraw the addicts from methadone. Kiracofe said this has not been done systematically anywhere else, but he thinks it will work.

Complete withdrawal from methadone will only be attempted, he said, after the addict has proven he is not likely to let the monkey climb back on his back.

Two-term former Alabama governor James (Big Jim) Folsom announced Friday he will be a candidate for governor in the May 5 Democratic primary. The colorful "kissin' governor," who is 62, said he would campaign with the outlook of a 20-year-old. (UPI)

Undersea Adventure Fascinating

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Jacques Cousteau and his undersea adventures reported on their studies of the big sea elephants — "The Cyranos of the Sea" — in another fascinating chapter of the ABC series Sunday night.

The sea mammals, which often weigh three tons, were observed on a short section of beach on Guadalupe Island off Baja California. There the animals flock around Christmas time to give birth to their young and to mate—in such numbers that many of the newborn are smothered or crushed.

There was some stunning undersea photography showing the creatures, so clumsy waddling on land but so graceful in the water.

The hour was a study in irony. The mammals were hunted almost to extinction before 1911 when the Mexican government protected them. There followed what the program called "a population explosion" of sea elephants—which is now threatened by man's pollution of the waters off the California coast.

NBC and CBS provided air time Sunday afternoon—at different hours—for a program made by Democratic members of Congress to respond to President Nixon's televised State of the Union address last month.

It was a mixture of styles and techniques of presentation. Sens. Edmund Muskie and Henry Jackson were simply interviewed on their viewpoints. Rep. Patsy Mink of Hawaii interviewed women shoppers in a supermarket on inflation and high interest rates. Some young members of Congress were introduced as, in shirt-sleeves, they talked earnestly to other young people.

The program, in spite of all the effort, still had the look and feel of those carefully composed image-making programs both parties paid to put on the air during the last presidential campaign.

Roger Mudd, participating in a CBS analysis after the program, noted that it was "the first time a political party has used professional help for a rebuttal." The general tone of the analysis, by Mudd, Eric Sevareid and Dan Rather, seemed sharper in its criticism of the program content than the program itself was of the Republican administration.

Friday night's drama special, "A Storm in Summer," on NBC was a moving and poignant story about a relationship between a hostile, street-wise little boy from a Harlem slum and a sad old Jewish delicatessen store owner. The original drama by Rod Serling was a fine one. Peter Ustinov was perfect as the shuffling old man, embittered by the loss of an only son in World War II. N'Gai Dixon was completely believable as the proud, tough 10-year-old.

NBC will spin a new soap opera off an established one at the end of March. "Another World—Somerset" will be related to the current serial "Another World" with characters and plots interchanged. A new device in daytime serials, it is used in CBS' "Green Acres" and "Petticoat Junction."

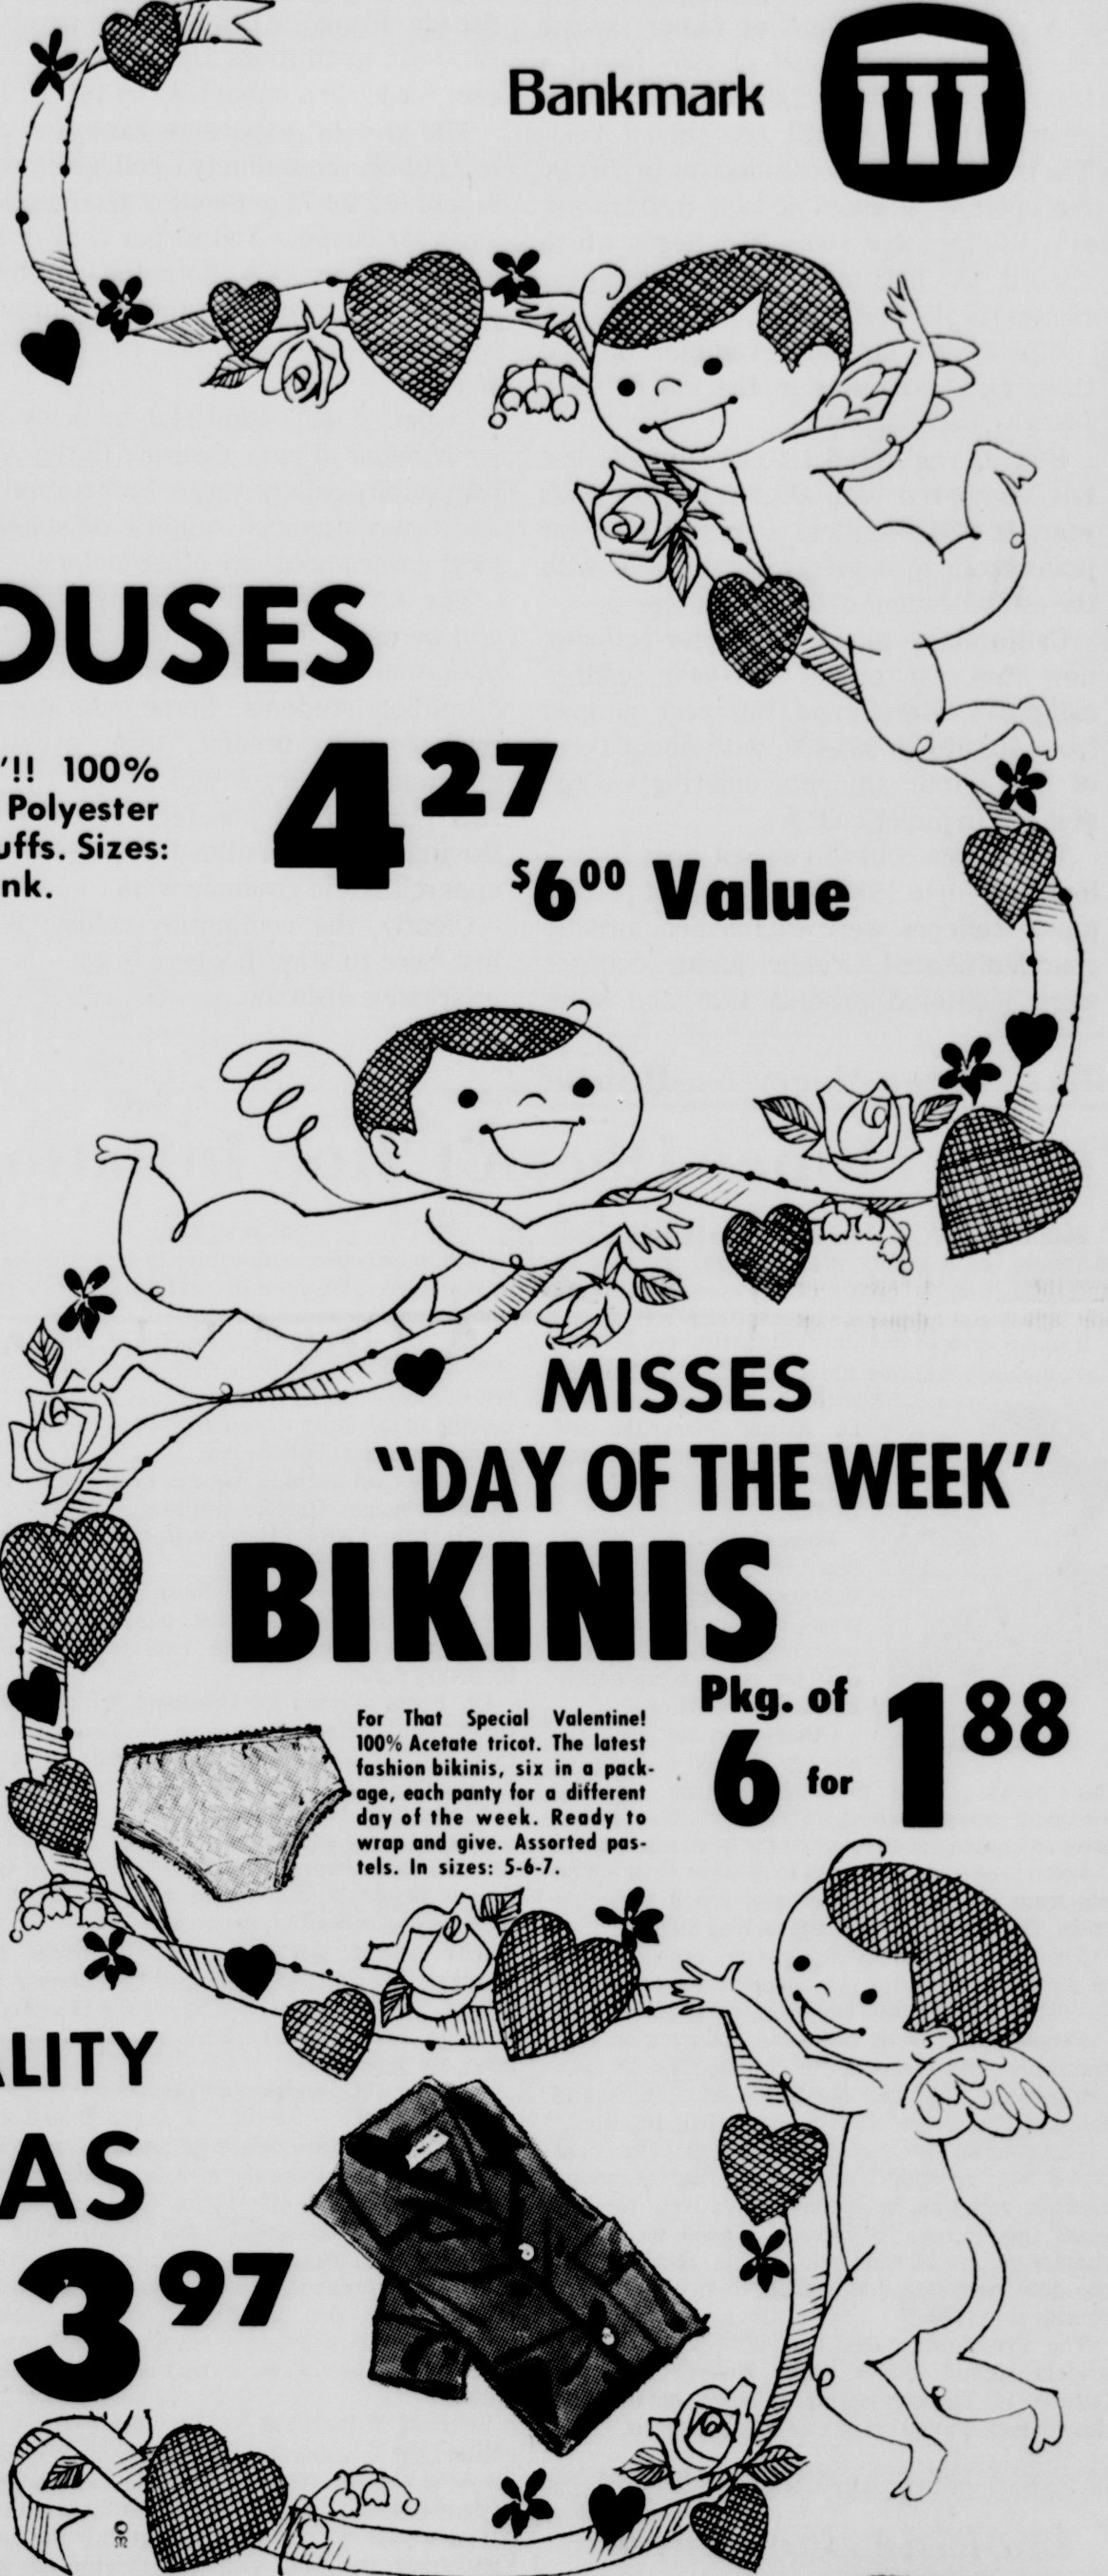

The new series will occupy the time period now filled with the game show "Name Dropers."

Junior Colleges Rise

In one state this year — Michigan — nearly one of every two first-time college students is enrolled in a two-year community college. Michigan now has 29 such colleges.

This is an indication of what may become a national trend, says the American Association of Junior Colleges. More and more young people are beginning their college careers in two-year institutions and later transferring to four-year colleges and universities, or going from occupational training programs to semiprofessional and technical jobs.

A preliminary count of junior college enrollments in the fall of 1969 found a total approaching 2,250,000 students, compared to 1,954,116 last school year. The big increase is accounted for in part by the opening of about 40 new institutions, plus the fact that some 60 colleges which opened in 1968 now have second-year classes for the first time.

Illinois, as another example, opened three new campuses in the fall of 1969, bringing its total to 45.

Florida registered 130,669 students last fall, compared with 112,898 the previous year. It will complete a master plan for junior college development in 1970 with the establishment of its 28th college.

California, a pioneer in junior colleges, now has 90 public two-year college campuses. Enrollment this year jumped from 603,096 to 665,490, with about three of every four students entering college doing so in junior colleges.

The junior college concept goes back a long way — to 1850, when the first private junior colleges were established, usually church-affiliated. Public junior colleges were instituted around 1900 and were generally extensions of existing high schools, often sharing high school facilities and teaching staff.

Vocational courses were added during the period 1920-1945, a movement spurred by the widespread unemployment of the Depression. With the formation of the AAJC, the modern community college began to emerge, with emphasis on vocational-technical studies, teaching, guidance and community services.

In terms of enrollment, however, two-year colleges experienced their most intensive growth only during the last decade. From 1961 to 1968, the number of two-year institutions increased by 46 per cent while enrollment rose by 161 per cent.

The greatest expansion has taken place in public community colleges, which accounted for 74 per cent of the number of two-year colleges and 93 per cent of their enrollment in 1968. Both the number of private junior colleges and the number of their students have declined in recent years.

"Open door" admission policies have contributed in large measure to the public community college surge. Low tuition cost and heavy financial support by state and local governments are other factors.

The AAJC forecasts that by 1980 there will be more than 1,200 junior colleges in operation, with an estimated enrollment of 3 million students. Some educators go further and predict that eventually community colleges will absorb the first two years of all post-high school study, leaving the universities to concentrate on upperclass and graduate work.

Clearly, the community college is not just here to stay. It's here to go — a very impressive distance.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Tight Money Doesn't Stop Inflation

WASHINGTON — President Nixon is determined to relieve the economic pressure upon the average American who is caught in a squeeze between soaring interest rates and skyrocketing prices.

It is now evident that the Federal Reserve Board's tight-money measures have enriched the bankers without halting inflation. Dr. Arthur Burns, the new chairman, is quietly committed to relaxing the restrictions.

Meanwhile, the dwindling money supply and tightening credit have left many corporations short of operating capital. The clamor for credit is approaching panic proportions.

Other corporations are already deeply in hock to the banks. This particularly true of investment houses, whose financial stability would have an immediate effect upon the stock market.

Some bankers have started to demand payment on old loans so they can offer new credit at higher rates. This could cause a crisis on Wall Street.

The high cost of credit also has cut into the profits of most companies the management often reacts by cutting back production and laying off workers.

People out of work, of course, reduce their own spendings. This means fewer automobiles, TV sets, refrigerators and other goods are sold. The sag in sales, in turn, extends the economic chain reaction.

This column reported last October that President Nixon was carefully manipulating the economic controls and that he planned tentatively to shift gears this spring. He never intended to let the country go into an economic tailspin, recalling that the 1959 recession contributed to his defeat for President in 1960.

The President spelled out his plans to party leaders behind closed White House doors last October 14. The confidential minutes, obtained by this column, quoted the President's prognosis.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q—What is the filing deadline for farmers who did not send in an estimated tax return?

—Under the Tax Reform Act of 1969, farmers now have until March 1 to file their return and avoid penalties for not making estimated tax declarations. This gives farmers two weeks more than they previously had to gather their records and prepare their return.

Since March 1 is a Sunday this year, farmers have until March 2 to file. Farmers should attach Schedule F to their Form 1040 and pay in full any tax that is due. Checks or money orders should be made payable to the Internal Revenue Service and identified by the taxpayer's Social Security number to make sure it is properly credited.

Peril at the Drive-In

Not all the trials and tribulations at a drive-in movie take place on the screen. Sometimes, misfortune also befalls a member of the audience. If a patron does suffer an accidental injury, may he hold the management legally liable?

To begin with, the management has a basic duty to maintain the littered roadway was a source of danger.

Furthermore, the management is supposed to enforce prudent rules of safety. In another case, a theater made no effort to keep its patrons from sitting outside their cars on warm evenings. Yet it provided no lighting for the aisles—and no attendants to guide the oncoming vehicles.

When a car struck a patron sitting near an aisle, the theater was held responsible. The court said the way the place was run, it was "a stage setting for tragedy."

Still, some mishaps are not fairly blamable on the management. Thus:

A patron heading for the snack bar tried to walk through the narrow space between a parked car and a listening post. Bumping into the connecting cord, he knocked the speaker box against a woman seated inside the car, inflicting an injury on her head.

The hapless woman never could locate the walker. So she decided to sue the theater instead, arguing that its arrangement of listening posts and connecting cords was a "dangerous condition."

However, the court held that the theater was no more at fault than she was. The judge said the management could reasonably assume that the average patron, knowing how a drive-in theater is set up, would have better sense than to walk into a cord.

Infection, Not Heredity, Is Cause of Nephritis

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—My son, 8, had nephritis three years ago and made a complete recovery. How long will he have to take daily doses of penicillin? Is nephritis hereditary? Are any other tests beside urinalysis needed?

A—Daily doses of penicillin are not needed unless some other disease is present but they should be started again promptly at the first sign of any febrile illness. This should prevent any serious recurrence. The cause of nephritis is an infection, not heredity. The diagnosis is made by finding blood and albumin in the urine.

Q—If a small piece of lead under the skin of a 10-year-old boy is not removed, could it lead to lead poisoning?

A—If a lead bullet lodges in the abdomen, pleural cavity or a joint, it may cause mild lead poisoning, but, if it lodges in the fat beneath the skin, a muscle or bone, this is not likely. In any case, a periodic check for evidence of lead poisoning should be made.

Q—Is it possible for a girl, 13, to have gall bladder trouble? What would be the cause? If she has it, would you advise an operation?

A—Although gall bladder disease is not common in children, it may occur at any age as a complication of an infectious disease. The chief symptoms are fever, nausea and pain in the right upper part of the abdomen. If the diagnosis is certain, removal of the gall bladder is advised.

Q—If a married couple both have Rh-positive blood could they have a baby with jaundice?

A—Although the erythroblastosis of infants due to Rh incompatibility causes jaundice in the newborn, this disease is not seen in the offspring of parents with the same Rh blood type. Jaundice does, however, occur in the second or third day of life in about 60 per cent of all babies. It is caused by incomplete development of the liver and usually clears up before the child is two weeks old.

Q—My grandson, 6, has flat feet and has been wearing arch supports for six months. Now he walks hunched forward like an old man. Do you have any suggestions?

A—In most children with flat feet, no treatment is needed, especially if the condition was present since birth. Exercises to strengthen the arches, walking barefoot or basic orthopedic shoes are usually preferred to arch supports.

HEW Veto: Nixon Intends to Be Boss

By RAY CROMLEY

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's veto of the $19.7 billion health, education and antipoverty appropriations bill was advertised as a battle over inflation.

That was only part of the story. The major issue here was something else.

It was, in effect, a fight to determine who would run the federal government's major domestic programs — Nixon or the Democratic majority in Congress.

The indications are Nixon has won. His veto was not overridden.

The key statement in Nixon's long veto message was that "...nearly nine-tenths of these increases is for mandatory programs which leave the executive branch no discretion whatever, either as to the level or the purpose of the added expenditures. This fact sharply differentiates this appropriation from other inflated measures that I have approved."

The Congress-voted increases would have tied Nixon's hands, forced him to expand projects he is convinced could be better carried out in other ways.

Accepting the original bill would, in the years ahead, have made it more difficult for Nixon to fund his own approaches on federal aid to education, health, vocational training and poverty.

Former Defense Secretary McNamara on occasion faced the same problem. Congress voted funds for some programs he didn't want. McNamara didn't spend the money; he had that option. But these current appropriations were voted in a way that required Nixon to spend — and to commit the dollars before July 1, 1970.

Nixon's veto symbolically applied to more than this budget. In that veto, he told the Congress he was determined that in 1971 and 1972 and as long as he was President, he intended to run the show.

It wasn't this congressional appropriation alone that bothered the Nixon men. The President's hands were already tied rather severely.

Nixon inherited some very expensive programs from the Johnson administration — programs he considered ineffective and misdirected, however worthy the goals.

Some of the costliest were self-continuing and self-expanding. That is, they could not be shut off like tap water and they contained built-in cost increases.

Nixon found these difficult-to-change programs were crowding out projects he wanted to develop. His cost experts would shave other programs to give him the dollars to venture on new approaches. Then cost overruns in the inherited programs would eat these savings. That meant nothing — or next to it — for the Nixon approach.

The President began to feel like a prisoner of the Johnson budgets and the Democratic Congress. So he acted.

Letter to the Editor

EUGENE WETZEL (Secretary-Treasurer, Benton County Taxpayers Association, Lincoln, Mo.) — During the past few weeks reference was made to the opposition to the Lincoln Nursing Home Bond Issue sponsored by the Committee opposed to unfair taxation.

This committee represented a segment of the citizens of the northwest part of Benton County and we certainly respect their feelings about this proposed tax burden as they definitely had legitimate cause to feel that they should oppose the issue.

By the same token we feel that the proponents of the Bond Issue were acting in good faith in trying to establish a nursing home to provide care for the aged people of the Lincoln community.

After giving careful study of both the favorable and unfavorable aspects of the proposition the Benton County Taxpayer's Association decided to remain neutral throughout the entire campaign even though our endorsement was requested more than a year ago by well-intentioned citizens of the district.

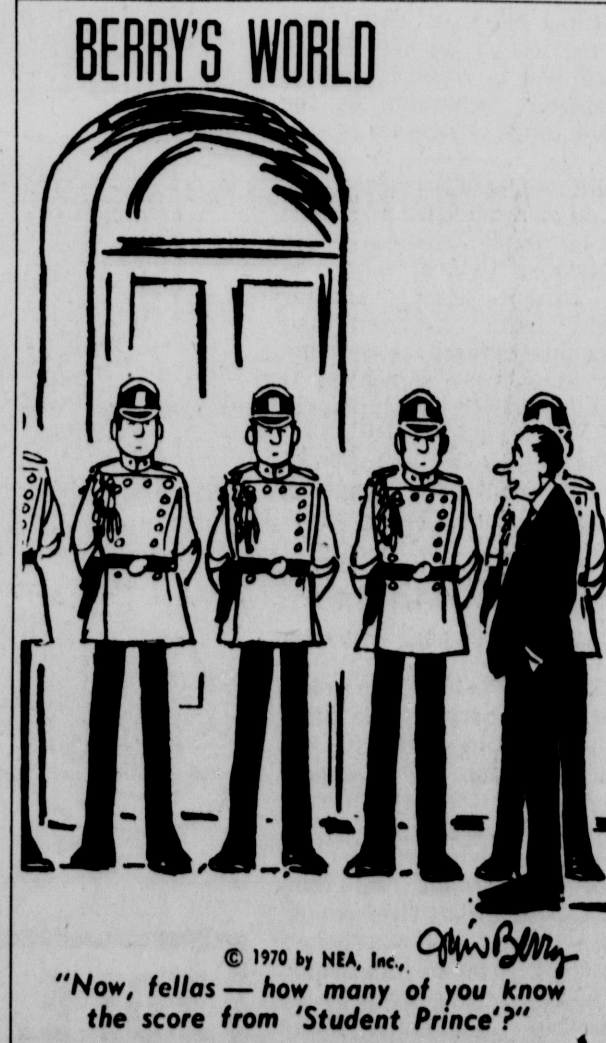

It is my sincere hope that a method of financing a professional nursing home in this district may be accomplished in the near future without an added tax burden.

If a plan is formulated to issue stock certificates to provide such a home I am quite confident that many of the fair-minded people who voted against the bond issue will step forward and purchase these certificates and help to materialize the dream of an excellent retirement home for those who are unable to care for themselves.

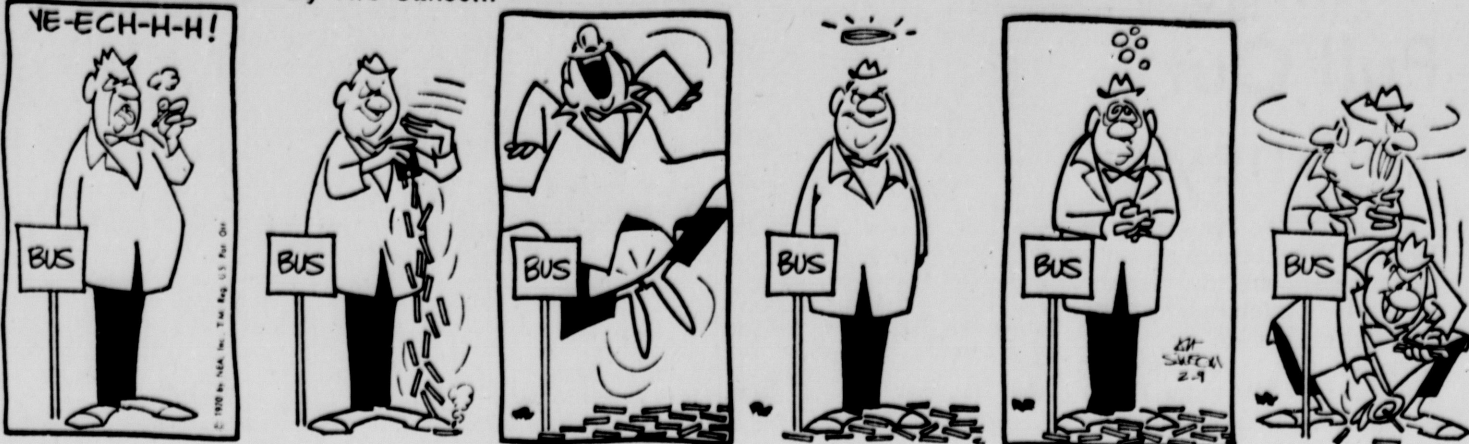

RAMON WICKER (Houstonia) — If there is to be any more publicity about the Houstonia city audit I hope you will emphasize the wasteful methods the state uses to conduct such audits.

To work three auditors for four months to audit the books of a little town of 261 people (total assessed tax base of $216,000) is absurd.

Sedalia, proportionally, with one hundred times our population would keep these gentlemen busy for 33.33 years and would receive a bill for a like audit of exactly $720,000.00, if the men are paid $7,200.00 yearly salary and expenses.

Here Are Ways to Paint Swirl-patterned Plaster

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I have fan-patterned plaster and Maxine wanted to know how to paint swirl-patterned plaster. The plasterer for our new home said that this should be spray painted. If a professional painter cannot be afforded, use a spray can under pressure. Keep the can at least 18 inches from the plaster.—VIRGIL

DEAR POLLY—I am a painting contractor and want to help Maxine, who would like to paint her swirl-patterned plaster ceiling. Cover all the furniture with plastic or canvas. If working from the floor and not on a ladder, put an extension on the handle of a paint roller. Using a long-nap roller (1-inch to 1½-inch), roll on the paint, but not too heavily. Roll it onto the ceiling. This will cover the design while painting in the grooves. The design will be as deep as it was originally.—EDWARD

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Do any of your readers know how to make Mexican flowers out of crepe or tissue paper? I think they are so pretty and would like to make some.—MRS. B. G.

DEAR POLLY—I always carry two magnets in my purse, as they are great entertainment for the small fry as we wait in a doctor's office or for our order in a restaurant.

Terrycloth towels sewn together make easy-to-laundry and gay picnic tablecloths that can be kept ready in the picnic basket. It's an excellent way to use up the mixed match sets.

Felt puzzles are great for tots traveling or confined to bed. Cut simple forms (squares, circles, triangles, etc.) from gay colors of felt scraps and then cut these pieces into puzzle forms. Vary the sizes and colors for interest. They never slip or slide and can be placed on a towel surface or other cloth if a regular felt board is not handy.—MRS. J. S.

Fourth Straight CEMO Loss for Smith-Cotton

By DAVID RAGES
MEXICO — The Smith-Cotton Tigers dropped their fourth consecutive Central Missouri Conference decision Saturday night without a win to the Mexico Bulldogs, 69-61 on the winners home court.

S-C fell behind early in the game, 9-0 and was never able to recover. As a result, Mexico closed the first stanza ahead by a count of 21-12.

For the remainder of the contest, S-C outscored the Bulldogs, 49-48, but could not trim the early lead Mexico had mounted from the opening tipoff.

In the second half, each team netted points, thus leaving Mexico on top midway through the contest, 39-30.

The Bulldogs added another point by the close of the third quarter, but Coach Jim Dinsdale's Tigers outscored Mexico, 19-17 in the final period.

Senior pivot man, John Knapp of the Tigers, tied for the game's scoring honors with 17 points, while teammate Jim Lewis and Bob Logan added 13 and 12 respectively.

The winners put four men in double figures, tying Knapp with 17 points was Keith Campbell.

Brothers Warren and Clyde Williams followed with 15 and 13 in that order, while Steve Leeper netted 10.

The locals have two games this week, both of which are CEMO loop contests.

Friday the Tigers travel to Jefferson City to take on the Jays and then return home Saturday night to host Hannibal.

With the loss to Mexico, S-C has to win all their remaining Central Missouri Conference games to have any chance at second place in the league.

For the year, the Tigers are sporting a mark of 10-6.

S-C was on the short end of both the field goal and free throw statistics. Mexico hit 44 percent of their shots from the line, while the Tigers could only muster 38 percent for the field and 54 percent from the charity stripe.

The Smith-Cotton junior varsity also lost Saturday night to the Bulldogs' jayvees, 58-42.

The young Tigers jumped out in front 15-13 in the initial period and added to that lead by the half time, 23-19.

Disaster struck the S-C scoring parade in the third quarter, when Mexico hit a total of 21 points, compared to the Tigers' six.

The fourth quarter was much the same as Mexico added 18, while S-C came up with only 13.

Dan Tatman for the Tigers was the game's leading scorer with 18; teammate Doug Maple netted 11.

For the year, the jayvees are 5-4.

French Get Good Start On Slopes

VAL GARDENA, Italy (AP) — A daredevil Italian, a newly confident American and a dejected Austrian today sought their revenge in the giant slalom of the World Ski championships against the all-powerful French team.

The French Ski-winning Machine, as it has come to be called, took a good start toward a medal sweep on Sunday by grabbing a gold and a silver in the special slalom, by Jean Noel Augert and Patrick Russel.

But three top skiers sought to stop the French steamroller without delay.

"The French could afford to go all out in the second heat of the special slalom on Sunday," said Italy's Gustavo Thoeni, who placed fourth. "They had all their four men at the top. They could all gamble. But I had only me."

Thoeni is atop the International Ski Federation Standings in both the special and the giant slalom. But he placed fourth in both legs of the special slalom.

"I will have a bit of anger going for me in the giant," Thoeni added.

So will Bill Kidd, of Stowe, Vt., who placed third in the special slalom and gave the United States its first medal in six years in an Olympic or world championship race.

Vikings Pull Out Tourney

SMITHTON — The Vikings of LaMonte High School posted a narrow, one-point win over the top-seeded Leeton Bulldogs late Saturday night, 60-59.

Despite the 40-point scoring outburst by Leeton star David Bancroft, the Vikings were able to push across the victory.

Friday night in the semi-final round, Leeton had to go into double overtime before they could down the host Smithton Tigers to gain the playoff spot in the finals.

LaMonte downed Calhoun and Green Ridge before posting the win in the finals over the top-seeded Bulldogs.

Mark Jones was the only Viking player in double figures; he tossed in a total of 27 points.

In addition to Bancroft's 40 points, Jon Armstrong followed with 18. These two players accounted for all but one of the total points in the game.

The Sacred Heart Gremlins won the consolation game of the tourney over Sweet Springs, 82-58, while Smithton topped Green Ridge, 86-68 in the third place contest.

Bill Straka, Ed Gonser, John Coxon and Jim Wanserski all hit in double figures in the win over Sweet Springs while Charles Langwisch was the only losing opponent to do so.

Straka was tops for the Grems with 17; Gonser followed with 16, while Coxon and Wanserski added 15 and 13 respectively.

Game scoring honors went to Langwisch with 18.

A total of ten Sacred Heart players got into the scoring act in the victory.

CMSC Adds Non-League Victory Saturday Night

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

While Central Missouri State and Southwest Missouri State race toward another showdown in the Missouri intercollegiate Athletic Association basketball race, things are shaping up for state teams bidding for the NAIA District 16 tournament field.

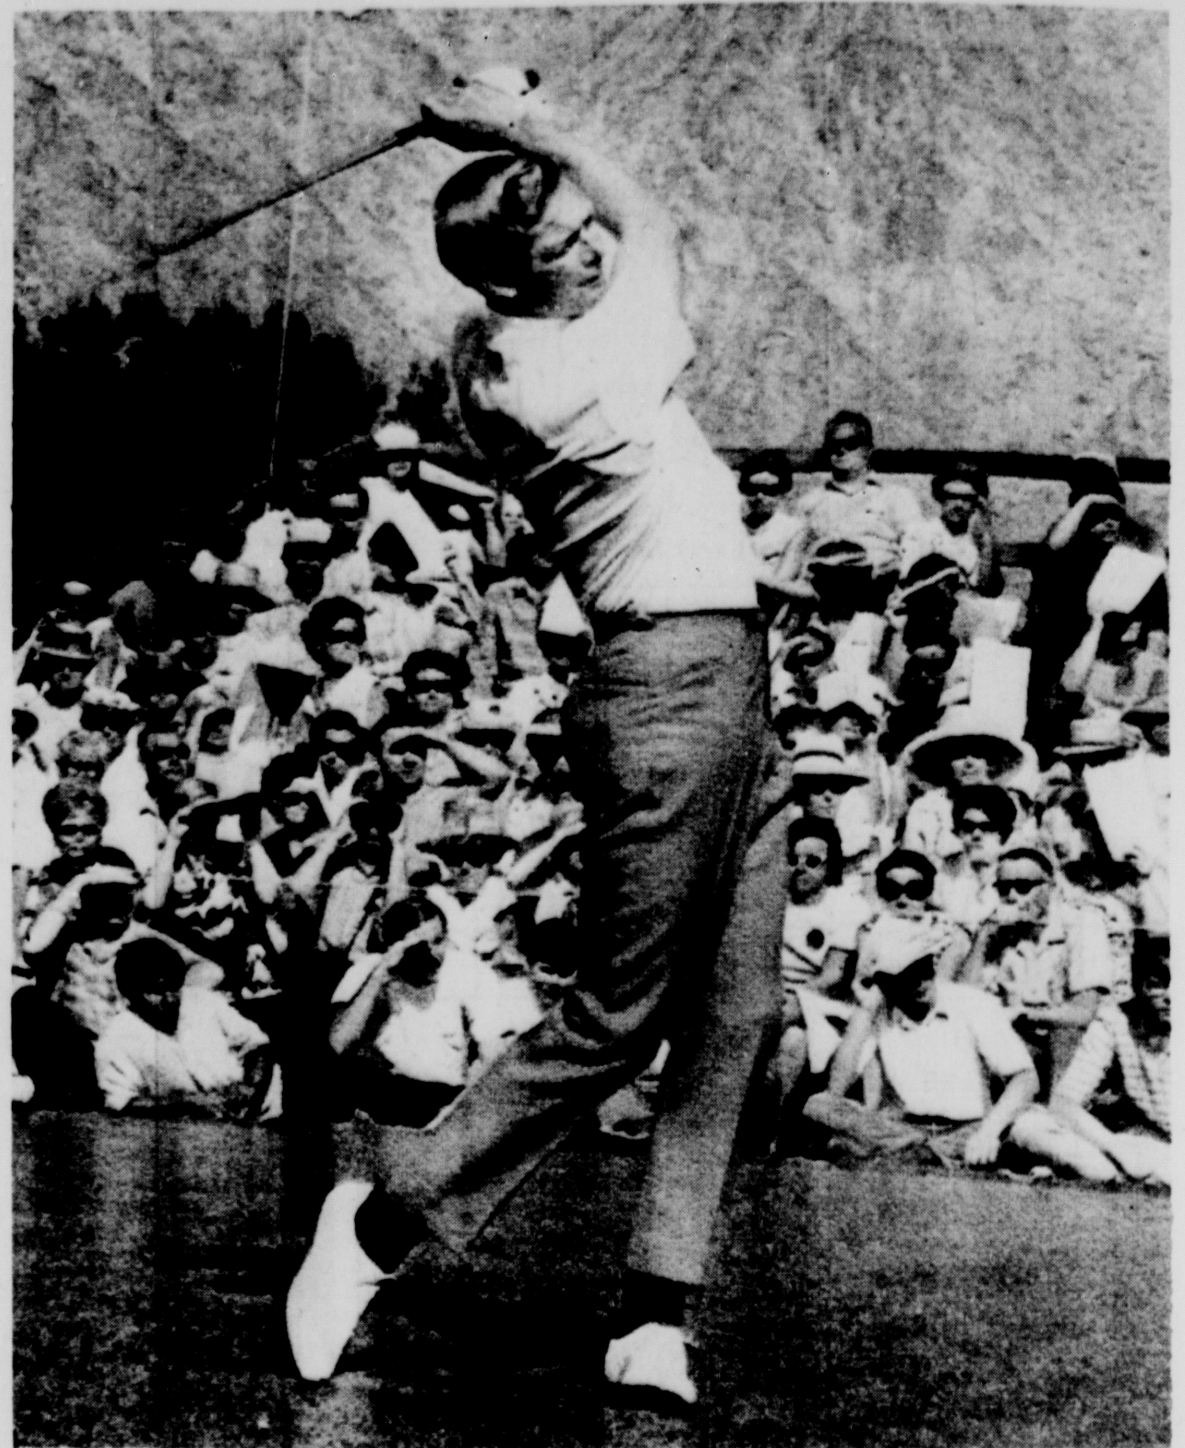

Central and Southwest, deadlocked for the MIAA lead with 36-1 conference records, both played outside the league Saturday night. Central's Mules topped Western Illinois, 107-96, while Southwest lost to Southern Illinois-Edwardsville, 93-82.

Elsewhere in the MIAA, Rolla nipped Northeast Missouri, 89-87 in four overtimes, while Northwest ripped Southeast, 84-69. That left Northwest third at 2-3, trailed by Southeast 2-4, Northeast 1-4 and Rolla 1-5.

Drury ran its Missouri Collegiate Athletic Union record to 9-0 by downing Culver-Stockton, 72-65. While Drury appears a cinch for a District 16 berth, since the MCAU champion automatically gains a bid, Culver — with its 13-5 over-all record — is not out of contention.

Culver is tied for second in the MCAU with William Jewell and Tarkio, all at 6-3. Tarkio beat Jewell, 72-57, to produce the tie. Graceland, a 91-78 winner over Missouri Valley, is next at 4-5. Central Methodist escaped the MCAU cellar with a 78-72 win over Westminster.

Devlin Tops Hope Field

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Australian Bruce Devlin tucked away a fat $25,000 today and the 11th annual $125,000 Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic goes into the books as the Agnew Year.

The 32-year-old Devlin closed the 90-hole, five-day marathon as hot as the 85 degree weather, shooting a six-under par 66 to better previous rounds of 67-68-70, all for a total of 339.

It was 21 strokes under par for the distance and eclipsed Larry Zeigler, who led or shared the lead from the outset, as the blond belter from Terre Du Lac, Mo., finished with a 72 for a 343.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew presented the winner's check to Devlin and in good humor took a gentle ribbing about the "hit" of the tournament—the ball he shanked that hit the most unlikely target around, Doug Sanders, the vice president's own playing professional, Saturday.

The shot cut into Sanders' scalp but he continued the round of 18 holes with Agnew, Bob Hope and U.S. Senator George Murphy, R-Calif.

"With all that crowd I thought someone might get hit, but not me," Sanders said laughing. "I thought I was safe in the fairway but I got caught in the cross-fire."

Sanders emphasized it had been a pleasure and an honor to play with Agnew and complimented him for his composure under adverse circumstances and lack of time to play regularly.

Back to golf. Zeigler began the round two strokes in front of Devlin, three over young Larr Hinson, with Lee Trevino, Arnold Palmer, defending champion Billy Casper and U.S. Open champion Orville Moody further back.

Hat-Trick Smile

Don Marcotte, called up in the midst of a Boston epidemic, is keeping the Bruins healthy. Marcotte connected for his first National Hockey League hat trick Sunday night, firing three goals that helped the Bruins to a 7-1 decision over St. Louis and kept them tied for second place with Montreal in the East Division, two points back of New York.

Recalled from Hershey 12 games ago when illness and injury depleted the Bruins' ranks, Marcotte had impressed Coach Harry Sinden with his defensive work. That commodity has been conspicuously absent in Boston this season with the Bruins allowing more goals than anyone else in the East.

But it was his scoring that had the Bruins smiling Sunday. The three goals gave him half a dozen since his recall and insured a longer stay for the rookie.

Elsewhere in the NHL. Sunday, Montreal nipped Chicago 3-2, New York ripped Los Angeles 5-1, Philadelphia dropped Detroit 5-3 and Pittsburgh belted Minnesota 6-3.

Marcotte played on a newly constructed line with Wayne Cashman and Phil Esposito, the NHL's leading goal scorer. The new wings didn't bother Espo, who collected his 32nd goal of the season and three assists.

The four points gave the rangy center 72 for the season, 10 less than teammate Bobby Orr, who picked up one assist.

John McKenzie scored two goals for the Bruins and almost was credited with a hat trick, too. Esposito's tip-in goal was originally credited to McKenzie before the official scorer changed the decision.

Montreal had to come from behind against Chicago to remain tied with the Bruins for second place. The Black Hawks led 2-1 before Mickey Redmond tied the score midway through the second period. Then Bobby Rousseau's second goal of the night and 20th of the season midway through the final period, gave the Canadiens their victory.

The Hawks played without regular defenseman Pat Stapleton and Doug Mohns, both sidelined by injuries. John Ferguson was out for the Canadiens.

New York got goals from five different players including a pair 36 seconds apart in the first period by veteran Don Marshall and rookie Bill Fairbairn to whip Los Angeles.

The victory kept the Rangers two points up on both Boston and Montreal. New York has also played two fewer games than either the Bruins or Canadiens.

Guy Gendron scored two goals — his 18th and 19th of the season — as Philadelphia scored its first victory ever at Detroit.

Gordie Howe collected the 750th goal of his fabulous career for the Red Wings.

Roadrunners Tangle With K.C. Metro

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

The State Fair Community College Roadrunners will try to get a win over the Unicorns of Kansas City Metropolitan Junior College tonight for the first time this season in the ag building on the State Fairgrounds.

So far this year, State Fair has been unsuccessful in two outings against the team that they defeated last year to gain a berth in the finals of the sub-district tournament for Region 16 junior college competition, last March.

The locals also lost a ten-point decision to the Unicorns on Jan. 24 on the Ruskin High School floor in Kansas City.

For the Roadrunners, the coaching staff will probably go with the same starters that have been initiating SFCC games for the past five weeks.

In the back court, freshman Darrell Gordon and sophomore Jerry Wright will run the State Fair attack.

Front liners John Nelson, Gayland Lightfoot and freshman Gene Wimsatt will round out the lineup.

Sophomore David Bratcher will likely see a lot of action for offensive and defensive rebounding strength.

The visitors will probably counter with 6'7" Kevin Gerschefske in the post. Nelson will more than likely get the defensive call for the Unicorns' pivot man.

The front line will be made up of Gary Black (6'3") and Philip Whitley (6'2").

Max Ralston and Zachary Townsend are slated to key the Metro offense in the back court.

Both SFCC and Kansas City Metropolitan posted wins in their last outings.

State Fair won a road contest from the Wentworth Military quintet Thursday night in Lexington. The Unicorns topped conference foe St. Paul's College of Concordia Saturday night, 110-66.

The Unicorns hold a season's mark of 18-5 while the Roadrunners are 12-6.

Following tonight's contest, SFCC will have four more games; three of those are home dates, while one is a road contest.

UCLA Adds Victory to String

By HERSCHEL NISSENON
Associated Press Sports Writer

No. 1-ranked UCLA is finally first in the Pacific-8, as well, but Kentucky, which fell from the top several weeks ago, is now having trouble shaking unheralded Georgia in the South-eastern Conference.

The 17-0 Bruins, shooting for their fourth consecutive national championship, continued as the only major unbeaten team Saturday with a hard-fought 66-65 triumph over Washington. But 11th-ranked Southern California, which had been tied for the Pac-8 lead, lost to Washington State 89-72 and dropped a game behind UCLA.

Henry Bibby led the way against Washington's tough zone defense with 19 points, the same number scored by the losers' Steve Hawes, returning to action after missing six weeks with a fractured leg. The Bruins led 30-25 at halftime and were unable to shake the Huskies until the closing minutes.

Dan Issel's school record 53 points led third-ranked Kentucky to a 120-85 victory over Mississippi but Georgia, 11-6 overall to Kentucky's 17-1, remained deadlocked with the Wildcats with 9-1 SEC records by edging Vanderbilt 49-90.

Second-ranked South Carolina and No. 5 North Carolina State, both 17-1, continued to run 1-2 in the Atlantic Coast conference. The Gamecocks boosted their ACC mark to 8-0 by routing Clemson 99-52 behind John Roche, who scored 25 points and had seven assists; Tom Owens, 22 points, 25 rebounds and 10 blocked shots, and Bobby Cremins, who held Clemson's high-scoring Butch Zatezalo to four points.

N.C. State won for the seventh time in eight ACC starts, riding Vann Williford's 25 points and tie-breaking layup with 91 seconds left to a 71-66 decision over Virginia.

Bob Lanier, St. Bonaventure's 6-foot-11 center, scored 34 points and held 7-foot Doug Hess to eight points and a like number of rebounds as the fourth-ranked Bonnies downed Toledo 77-71 for a 15-1 record.

Sixth-ranked New Mexico State, 18-2, trailed Utah State for 23 minutes before pulling out a 95-90 triumph over the Aggies. Austin Carr, who scored 38 points and set a Notre Dame season record of 675, tied the score at 81 with a layup as the overtime buzzer sounded and the Irish went on to beat ninth-ranked Kansas State 76-46, while Missouri smothered Iowa State, 87-35, in dual meets.

Oklahoma State and Oklahoma had some sparkling individual performances at Ft. Worth. Colorado was idle over the weekend.

Some of the top Big Eight marks of the weekend included Steve Wilhelm of Kansas with a heave of 65 feet, 3 inches in the shot, beating celebrated teammate Karl Salb who did 64-8; Lucius Williams, Kansas State

:06.7 in the lows and :07.3 in the high hurdles; Don Quarrie, Nebraska, :06.1 in the 60; Dennis Cotner, Oklahoma, :31.4 in the 300; Peter Kaal, Oklahoma State

:4.07.6 in the mile, and Ray McGill, Kansas State, 6-9 in the high jump.

However, Harris already has tied the world indoor record for the event at 5.9 seconds this winter, and this weekend added the outstanding athlete award from the 10th Coaches Indoor Games at Ft. Worth, Tex., to his laurels.

The Oklahoma State flash, a native of California, sped the 60 in 6.1 seconds and the 300-yard dash in :30.7 at Ft. Worth to win both events.

Gray and Harris are due to collide tonight at Omaha in the U.S. Track and Field Federation indoor meet which has all Big Eight Conference teams entered as well as some 20 other colleges and universities, including Big Ten power Wisconsin.

Say Much Consumption Of 'Cancer Eye' Beef

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans during the last fiscal year ate millions of pounds of beef from cattle that had "cancer eye" or similar tumorous disorders, Agriculture Department records show.

Nearly 103,000 cattle carcasses checked by federal inspectors were held in meat plants until tumorous parts were whittled out. The remainder of the meat was put on the market, according to the statistics.

But the department says the cattle situation differs from chicken processing in which the government requires any bird with a tumorous part be entirely destroyed and not passed on to the consumer.

One distinction, say federal authorities, is that leukosis or chicken cancer virus may be spread throughout the bird while a localized tumor on a cow's head has no relation with the roast on her hump.

Red meat animals such as cattle, hogs and sheep are so anatomically different, say Agriculture Department experts, that comparisons with poultry are limited except on aesthetic grounds.

But last week Dr. Jesse L. Steinfeld, U.S. surgeon general, told the Agriculture Department, a ban on diseased poultry should continue "predominantly on aesthetic grounds and because scientists do not have all the answers."

Of the 103,000 cows temporarily held back in fiscal 1969, 168 carcasses had carcinoma—involving tumors which may appear anywhere in the body—and 102,669 having epithelioma, a tumorous condition of the eye.

The total represented a fraction of more than 3.3 million cattle carcasses detained briefly in meat plants while parts were cut out because of other diseases and injuries ranging from adhesions to tuberculosis.

In all, the 1968-69 report shows, more than 10 per cent of the 30.1 million cattle carcasses approved by federal inspectors underwent some postmortem whittling for removal of offending parts.

Dr. Joseph S. Stein, head of slaughter inspection for the department, said cutting away an infected part from a red meat animal is no worse than a housewife removing a spot from an apple and using the rest of it for a pie.

The surgeon general said lesions and tumors associated with leukosis viruses in chickens "are in fact indicators of widespread systemic disease" in the rest of the bird.

Therein lies another significant difference between poultry and red meat animals, Stein told a reporter.

With one possible exception, "there is no tumorous disease of cattle which is known to be even associated at this present stage of the game with a virus" affecting humans, Stein said.

The only possibility, he said, is malignant lymphoma, which in cattle may be "somewhat similar" to human leukemia and the leukosis in chickens.

But when this disease is detected, Stein said, the entire carcass is condemned as human food. There were 4,831 such rejections last year.

Moreover, he said, if cancer eye is found to have spread to the animal's lymph system—sort of a filter apparatus—the entire carcass also is condemned.

Stein said 60 years of experience has shown these methods to be a satisfactory, safe and acceptable procedure and that new federal meat regulations expected to be adopted soon will continue the practice.

Burnett Is Still On Top

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Carol Burnett must be doing something right. This is the third year of her weekly variety show—and her best in the ratings.

Her Monday night romp on CBS has been placing in the top 10 and the reason can't merely be the weakness of the opposition. The comedienne believes it's because the people on her show try harder.

"Our show reflects a lot of care," she said during a break at CBS Television City. "The sketches are well constructed and carefully rehearsed; they've got to hold up, because some of them last for 20 minutes."

Another factor that may be in her favor: she is the only female star to headline her own variety show (the Lennon Sisters share the billing with Jimmy Durante). She adds to the feminine touch by sharing the show with other famous ladies.

Her reasoning: "I've always enjoyed seeing two more or less equal performers work together. I love to watch Bob Hope exchanging quips with Jack Benny. Or Andy Williams singing with Steve Lawrence or Bob Goulet. And what could be greater than Fred Astaire and Gene Kelly dancing together?"

"For that reason I love working with Martha Raye or Nanette Fabray or the other girls I have on the show. There is no sense of competition whatsoever. In fact, sometimes I end up giving them routines that had been written for me, merely because the material seemed better suited for them."

With The Carol Burnett Show thriving in the Nielsen's, there can be no doubt that CBS will renew it for a fourth season. That would be just dandy with her.

"Frankly, doing this show is like stealing money," she said. "The hours are remarkably easy. Most days I don't arrive until noon. Except for the nights of orchestra rehearsal and the actual taping, we're home by 6 o'clock, so we can have dinner with the children." By "we," she means herself and husband Joe Hamilton, the show's producer.

For a personality who says she likes to avoid controversy, Carol has had quite a bit lately. First there was her appearance on The Merv Griffin Show, which was cut by CBS because of her pitch for postcards in behalf of People for Peace. She's still upset at the network for that, but absolves Griffin of any blame.

On a recent Bob Newhart special, Don Adams said in a roundtable discussion on comedy that Carol was an example of the triumph of talent over mediocre material. Said Carol, rising to defend her writers: "I'm not mad at Don, but I am angry with the producer, who took Don's remarks out of context of a 25-minute discussion."

St. Louisan Is Charged For Murder

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A man police say has a history of arrests since the time he was 8 years old was charged Sunday with murder and robbery in the shooting death last Friday of a nurse on the city's south side.

Warrants issued by the Circuit Attorney's office charged Jerome Joe Pruitt, 22, with the robbery-slaying of Lynda Walker, 26, whose body was found near Firmin Desloge Hospital, where she worked.

Police said Pruitt was arrested Saturday on information provided by persons residing near the area where Mrs. Walker's damaged 1970 automobile was found 5½ hours after her death.

Personal property belonging to the woman was found in the home of Pruitt, who has served two prison sentences on burglary convictions, police said.

In addition to charging Pruitt, police booked two 17-year-olds and a 16-year-old on suspicion of murder and robbery. The 17-year-olds were identified as Melvin Lee Visnon and Ronald Gunn.

According to Homicide Bureau officers, Pruitt admitted robbing Mrs. Walker but named the 16-year-old as her assassin.

A school girl en route home found Mrs. Walker's body near the hospital. Police said she had been shot in the back of the neck with a .22 caliber weapon.

Oil Fuels Flames

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Water pollution became a burning issue in suburban Euclid over the weekend as fires fueled by oil on the surface of Lake Erie sent flames shooting into the air two nights in a row.

Firemen said the oil apparently flowed into the lake via a storm sewer and was set afire by teen-agers.

Recruiting on Campuses Is Scheduled to Begin

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite the apparent value gap between college students and business, early reports indicate that campus recruiting this spring is expected to be vigorous, and starting salaries may rise a bit.

While not ignoring the widely publicized disaffection of some students, corporate recruiters seemingly are working on the theory that business careers continue to be first or second choice of most male students.

A study reported by the National Industrial Conference Board suggests that while some slowdown in demand for bachelor level graduates might develop, there appears to be a quickening of demand at the master level.

The biggest increase in demand for master's degree candidates, according to the study, may be in technical, engineering and accounting fields, with liberal arts graduates far down the list.

Greatest demand among all master's candidates, according to the study made by the Northwestern University placement department, may be for accountants, reflecting the increasing complexity and demands of that occupation.

Accounting methods have come under considerable professional scrutiny in recent years, primarily because of the changing nature of corporate structures and the demands by stockholders and regulators for disclosure of more information.

In addition, computer technology has permitted business to change many of their record keeping functions, provided they can obtain properly trained professional workers, such as accountants.

The Northwestern study also indicates that while most companies expressed a general feeling of restrained confidence in the future, 30 per cent of 206 companies studied indicated they were cutting back on campus visits.

Among the reasons listed for doing so, the most common were: decline in profits, unfavorable economic conditions, reduced government contracts, need to cut costs, and a need for more experienced personnel.

Those who said they would be seeking more college graduates listed as their reasons: company growth, upgrading of management potential, backlog of demand from 1969, company reorganization, growing number of retirements.

Some companies indicated that the return to civilian life of Vietnam veterans would affect opportunities for this year's college crop. Some companies, in fact, said veterans are preferred because of their maturity and the likelihood that they may have more clearly defined career goals.

One of the frustrations for corporations in recent years has been the high turnover of college recruits in which they have a large financial investment.

Impatient to prove their worth, some recruits jump from one job to another. Some corporations have found their recruits with the mistaken notion that they are being groomed to take over the company in a matter of a few years.

While salaries will continue to grow, according to the study, some of the increases over a year ago will hardly match rises in the cost of living. There is the likelihood also that run of the mill graduates will not command salaries as large as those offered to recruits.

"As usual," said the NICB in reporting the study, "the liberal arts graduate is the low dollar man in average starting salary." His $699 monthly pay at the bachelor degree level compares with a high of $872 for engineers.

Captured Document Reveals Atrocities

NEW YORK (AP) — A captured Communist document says local Red leaders executed entire families in the same province in which U.S. troops allegedly massacred civilians at My Lai, the New York Daily News said in its Monday editions.

The News said in a Saigon dispatch by correspondent Joseph Fried that the Communist command's secret directive ordered a halt to a reign of terror by the local leaders in Quang Ngai Province because it was costing popular support.

The News quoted the document as saying the leaders had falsely accused some of their opponents of subversive activities. "Then the hamlet unit secretly arrested and executed those people without trial or requesting authority from higher headquarters. The killing of 12-year-old children, their parents and relatives, occurred in some areas."

Orthodox Church In U.S. on Its Own

NEW YORK (AP) — The Russian Orthodox Greek Catholic Church of America has been granted independence by church officials in Russia.

Church officials here said Friday that the church will soon take the name Orthodox Church of America.

The branch includes 700,000 Americans of Russian descent and 100,000 Aleuts, Eskimos and Indians and has been self-governing since 1921, when it refused to sign a loyalty pledge to the Soviet Union.

But Russian officials have always claimed jurisdiction. Under the agreement, which will be announced formally in a few weeks, the Patriarchate in Moscow will dissolve its Exarchate in the United States and recall its archbishop, the Most Rev. Jonathan.

Tanker in Trouble

Its bow nearly awash, the Liberian oil tanker "Arrow" lies helplessly grounded on a reef three miles off the eastern Nova Scotia coast recently. As the ship later began splitting, Imperial

Philippine Economy Feeling Japan's Surge

MANILA (AP) — Japan's resurgence has made a powerful impact on the Philippine economy. This is a mixed blessing to some Filipinos, yet even those frightened by it sometimes find themselves unable to resist dealing with Japanese businessmen.

Japanese-made taxis dominate the streets of Manila; Japanese-made radios and television sets fill the households, and Japanese heavy equipment prevails in new industry and construction.

Japanese embassy officials here predict that within the first months of 1970 Japan will supplant the United States as the Philippines' No. 1 trading partner. They now share more than $800 million business annually, slightly less than the Philippines and America.

The trade balance is almost even. In 1968 it amounted to $411 million in Japanese imports and $399 million in Philippine exports, making the Philippines the fourth ranking trader with Japan.

The Japanese suck up raw materials—iron ore, copper, tin, timber, sugar—and sell equipment of all types—heavy and light machinery, electronics.

Many Filipinos fear that unless the Philippines is careful, shrewd Japanese businessmen with powerful capital backing and aggressive know-how could dominate key sectors of business. One economist insists that this a pervasive feeling in business circles, but that the need here for capital goods combined with the enticing terms offered by Japanese make the deals irresistible.

"The usual technique," says a business writer for one of Manila's large daily newspapers, "is for a Japanese trader to find a struggling Filipino company that is sinking, broke. The Japanese offers to help out and before you know it he has poured in capital, know-how, supplies—maybe changed the company completely—and in effect is the owner, although it remains in the Filipino's name."

At least partly because of the complaints and suspicions, the Philippine Senate has refused to ratify the treaty of friendship, commerce and navigation that was concluded with Japan in 1960. Japanese contend they therefore operate here without sufficient treaty protection and face harassment in taxation, visas, and work in a generally unstable business climate.

Japanese tourists do not regard this country as one of their favorites. Only about 20,000 Japanese visit these islands in a year, far less than many smaller Asian countries—and many of them are businessmen.

Even Japanese officials will say that they have less rapport with Filipinos than other Asians. They attribute this to the influence of old colonizers—Spain and the United States.
